Should Peasants Keep Quiet?

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Cardin disclosed Monday in the Commons the alleged espionage offences by George Victor Spencer of Vancouver began "well before 1960."

Ghana Near Famine

From Reuters-AP

ACCRA (CP) — Lt. Gen. Joseph Ankrah, Ghana's new military ruler, said Monday night his country is close to famine and starvation and he appealed to friendly countries to help restore its economy.

In his first nationwide address since seizing power in a coup four days ago, Ankrah branded deposed president Kwame Nkrumah as Africa's No. 1 tyrant and dictator and charged him with bringing Ghana to the brink of economic ruin.

Nkrumah arrived Monday in Moscow and conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. There was no indication how long he would stay there.

"KEEP OUT"

Ankrah also warned "all nations to keep out of our problems and leave us alone to do our best to solve them."

Earlier at a press conference he said if Nkrumah returns to Ghana he will face trial.

Ankrah made these other points:

- Ghana will cease to interfere in the internal affairs of other states and no longer will harbor and train political refugees for subverting other African countries.
- Ghana will retain membership in the Commonwealth. She will not break relations with Russia and China.
- Ghana is willing to re-establish diplomatic relations with Britain, broken off by Nkrumah.

MISSIONS

One of the first acts of his new regime, he said, will be to send missions to the French-speaking states of Togo, the Ivory Coast, Upper Volta and Niger to re-establish good relations.

The press conference apparently was called to dispute the statement of a Ghanaian in exile that the coup was masterminded in London. Ankrah said Dwa Daniel Amihya, who told reporters in London he masterminded the coup, is "a charlatan."

Amihya, who returned to Accra from London Sunday, was made to stand on a chair while guards covered him with guns.

WANTED CRIMINAL

Sweating freely under are lights, Amihya attempted to explain his sympathy for the new regime.

Ankrah angrily told the press conference: "None of us know him. He is a criminal wanted in Ghana. We will put him in a cold ice chest."

Asked when the coup was planned, Ankrah said: "In Kumasi, about three weeks ago." He said no foreign country helped.

Free Trade By July 1967?

BRUSSELS (AP) — Europe's Common Market countries agreed Monday to try to end all restrictions on the free movement of goods among them by July 1, 1967.

Money Crisis Brews

-- Ottawa Is Penniless

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The government, technically, is broke today.

When the clock on the Peace Tower struck midnight last night, the last day of February, the government was left without any spending authority from Parliament.

It has no authority for spending in March, for paying civil servants, the armed forces and other expenses of government.

A government in such a fix clearly faces a crisis, which it can solve by:

'Tit For Tat'

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Premier Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa said Monday night if Britain, a great friend of the United States, can continue to trade with Cuba and North Viet Nam, it is much more natural for South Africa to maintain normal relations with its immediate neighbor, Rhodesia.

Verwoerd, opening the campaign of the ruling Nationalist party for the March 30 general election, said he wishes to make it clear Britain has made no threats to South Africa despite its attitude towards Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

Diplomatic exchanges between the two countries have led to wrong deductions by others, he said. They had taken place in a decent manner, which could be expected from civilized nations that wanted to retain the friendship of others.

CONCERN EXPRESSED

Britain has expressed concern about certain developments and South Africa has expressed concern to Britain about certain events on its own soil, Verwoerd said.

He was apparently referring to British objections to oil supplies being sent to Rhodesia from private individuals and organizations in South Africa. South Africa is believed to have in turn complained about British agents going to the border post of Beit Bridge to check on oil supplies being sent to Rhodesia.

IGNORES BOYCOTT

Verwoerd said South Africa has expressed its determination to adhere to its policy of non-interference and to refuse to take part in any boycott against Rhodesia, whose white-minority government broke away from Britain Nov. 11.

He said it is true Rhodesia is benefiting from South Africa's refusal to participate in any boycotts, but nobody and no nation that is reasonable could expect anything else from a good neighbor not concerned in the particular conflict.

HIDING NOTHING

"This is a bona fide security case," Mr. Cardin said. It was demagoguery to ask questions about it knowing the answers could not be given in public. The opposition was acting as though it had never heard of security procedures and was insinuating the government had something to hide.

"We are not trying to hide anything."

Normal security procedures had been used in the case. There was only one unprecedented fact, which the opposition wanted to overlook: "Spencer branded himself as a spy of his own free will."

NAME USED

Mr. Cardin said he used Spencer's name on a national television broadcast three weeks after Spencer had identified himself as the postal clerk involved in an espionage case.

A judicial inquiry should not replace the basic trust and confidence between the government and the people.

Israeli, Old Plane, Won't See Nasser

F-5 Tested Over North

SAIGON (LAT)—Northrop's F-5 Freedom Fighter jets—the U.S. "discards" purchased for Canadian use—had their big chance to prove themselves Monday in strike missions over North Viet Nam.

The small, inexpensive fighter planes had been sent to Viet Nam for testing under combat conditions, compared with the bigger, more sophisticated Thunderchiefs and Phantoms.

Results of Monday's sorties will provide Canada with some of the answers she is looking for in connection with this proposed addition to her fighting forces.

Peace Flight Misses

PORT SAID (AP) — An Israeli former fighter pilot flew to the United Arab Republic Monday on a one-man peace mission but failed in an attempt to see President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He will be given fuel to fly home today.

Abraham Nathan, 38, made a forced landing at Gamil Airport in Port Said when his tiny, 40-year-old monoplane ran out of fuel. He had radioed ahead that he was on a peace mission and requested permission to land. He said he wanted to see Nasser.

ENOUGH FUEL

Hassan Roachdy, security chief in Port Said, said Nathan would be allowed to spend the night in Port Said and be given enough fuel to fly out this morning.

There were reports that Nathan told Port Said authorities he brought with him petitions bearing thousands of Israeli signatures calling for a peace between the United Arab Republic and Israel. The U.A.R. considers itself still at war with Israel.

Cancer Patient Finds 'Twin' Tumor Transplant All Set

BUFFALO (AP) — Doctors at Roswell Park memorial institute said Monday they have located a cancer victim who has agreed to participate in a rare cancer transplant with a Tucson, Ariz., businessman.

The unidentified 65-year-old man from Philadelphia, and Robert F. Allen, 28, of Tucson, will come to Buffalo for the operation, perhaps this week, a spokesman said.

Allen, father of three, has osteogenic sarcoma, a rare type of bone cancer, and has been given two to six months to live by his doctors.

His life could be saved, the doctors said, if a person could be found with the same type of cancer and the matching blood-type, O-positive.

The transplant, which involves transplanting a portion of the tumor from each into the thigh of the other, also could save the life of the other man, doctors said.

Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler, associate chief cancer research surgeon at Roswell Park, New York state's cancer research and treatment centre, said he decided on the Philadelphia man Monday afternoon.

LBJ Discreetly Cheers for Wilson

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill, sometimes described as a 19th-century Tory, urged Britain never to turn its back on the alliance with the United States.

His most ardent disciple today in that view is Harold Wilson, Socialist prime minister.

If that seems paradoxical, so does the general assumption here President Johnson's heart rides firmly—if discreetly—with

Wilson in the March 31 election called Monday in a bid to strengthen the delicate Labor majority. (See Page 20)

Another general assumption is campaign issues are likely to deal more than usual with American policy in Viet Nam and elsewhere and British adherence to it.

The British election seems certain to be followed accordingly with much more interest than is usual and the result viewed—rightly or wrongly

—as a comment on Labor support for the American role in Viet Nam.

Wilson's success to date in muzzling his usually voluble left wing has been noted carefully.

There are other matters, such as Britain's decision, much welcomed here, to stick militarily out of Suez although Conservative spokesmen such as Enoch Powell have advocated pulling out.

There is the decision to let the Royal Navy wither and to buy expensive American fighter-bombers instead.

Britain's role, therefore, is held to be ally No. 1 at a time when the U.S. hard-pressed to rally acceptance of its policy in Viet Nam let alone much material support, feels itself extended globally in its defence commitments.

Prime Minister Wilson also has come across to Americans as a hard-nosed, adroit politician.

President Johnson, speaking to reporters Saturday, praised Wilson's cables on his Moscow visit as pithy political reporting. Johnson coupled that with a bouquet to Prime Minister Pearson, incidentally for succinctness and brevity.

In short, Wilson has scored in the White House and outside as a strong pragmatist, facing the hard facts of Britain's new middle-power role and unfettered by much ideological commitment.

Rent-Purchase Plan

Home Gift To Reach $300 Peak

Premier Bennett said Monday the government is "studying" a rent-purchase plan for persons unable to raise a down payment to purchase their own houses, and that the homeowner grant would be increased to $150, to $200 and to $300.

The remarks came while the legislature was considering second reading of a bill to increase the homeowners grant by $10 to $110.

The bill passed second reading by unanimous consent of the House.

OTHERS ADVANCE

Three other bills also passed second reading but resulted in a concerted opposition attack on the government and at one point a "yes" reply from the premier that he was electioneering.

The other bills were to pay off the B.C. Ferry Authority debt, to increase by $4 the provincial per-capita grant to municipalities, and increased subsidies for the provincial medical care scheme.

Mr. Bennett, after several opposition MLAs called for some aid to renters, told the House:

"I'm making no promises. I am only reporting to the House (rent-purchase plan) is being studied."

He said under such a scheme more people would be eligible to receive the homeowner grant.

NOT ENOUGH

Opposition leader Strachan agreed the grant helps but it is not enough to meet rising assessment rates in many areas.

Liberal leader Ray Parraut and Alex Macdonald (NDP-Vancouver East) said giving the grant only to homeowners "discriminates" against the growing population of renters.

Alan Macfarlane (L. Oak Bay) said the government's refusal to extend the grant to renters could only be construed to mean that the government was "not prepared to help the little man who rents."

POLICY FLEXIBLE

While discussing the raise of $4 in provincial per capita grants, Mr. Bennett denied a statement by Mr. Strachan that the government had earmarked sales tax money for municipalities.

Government policy, he said, is flexible with regard to financial aid to municipalities.

"We live in a changing world," the premier said.

"You must have dynamic policies for a dynamic society. 'Municipalities and the people of this province can always expect more every year.'"

'CAMPAIGN SPEECH'

Mr. Parraut interjected: "Is that a campaign speech?"

"Yes," the premier shot back.

Mr. Parraut termed the grant principle "penny ante" and "penny-pinching."

He charged that the government has "a collective gull complex in its treatment of municipalities."

Dr. Pat McGeer (L. Vancouver-Point Grey) said there would be no solution without a "complete new approach to (municipal) financing."

"Fixed grants, like per capita

NASA Says:

Russians To Land On Moon

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—James Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, said Monday the Soviet Union may attempt to land men on the moon this year.

He told the Senate aeronautics and space committee: "All signs indicate we will see, more and larger Soviet operations in space this year."

Webb also said budget cuts have destroyed his agency's hopes of sending an American to the moon in 1967 or 1968.

But, barring some major setbacks, it was reasonable to expect a U.S. lunar landing by late 1969.

Protester Finds Jail She Likes

OLYMPIA (AP) — Comedian Dick Gregory's wife Monday ended a two-week stay in Thurston County's jail which she called "the nicest one I've been in."

She and her husband were jailed Feb. 15 for illegal use of sets for fishing during a protest fish-in by Indians on the Nisqually River east of Olympia.

Gregory was scheduled to arrive at the Seattle-Tacoma airport Monday to continue support of Indians in their fishing rights squabble with the state.

The nightclub comic was bailed out of jail here Feb. 17, but his wife stayed. Monday she said, "I've stayed in jail long enough to protest."

Police Impose News Blackout

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Police Director Jean-Paul Gibeault Monday ordered a news blackout on the investigation of the shooting of lawyer Francois Payette.

Crash Kills Gemini Pair

ST. LOUIS (AP)—U.S. Astronauts Elliot S. S. and Charles A. Bassett, the primary crew for the planned Gemini 9 space flight, were killed Monday when their jet plane crashed into the building housing their space capsule.

The backup crew for the flight scheduled for this summer, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene Cernan, were named to replace S. and Bassett.

Stafford and Cernan, who were following S. and Bassett 34, to the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation plant for space training, landed their T-38 trainer minutes after S. and Bassett crashed.

The McDonnell plant built the Gemini space capsules. The accident will have no effect on the Gemini 8 flight and "hopefully it will have no effect on the Gemini 9 flight."

said Paul Haney, the Manned Space Centre's public relations director.

Haney said it will be six to eight weeks before the cause of the crash is learned.

LANDING ATTEMPTS

He said the crash occurred after S. advised Stafford, piloting the other plane, that he was going to try an instrument landing.

The bodies were thrown from the wreckage after their plane—also a T-38—glanced from the roof of McDonnell's space centre and exploded into flames on a nearby parking lot.

CAPSULE NEARBY

The Gemini 9 space capsule still was in the building, about 500 feet from the impact point. It was being prepared for shipment to Cape Kennedy in several weeks.

Twelve persons working in a McDonnell engineering office were injured. None was thought to be hurt seriously. Some were knocked from their chairs when the plane hit the roof directly above them. One man suffered a broken ankle.

It was not learned whether S., 34, or Bassett, 34, was piloting the two-seat plane.

The cause of the crash was not learned.

LAST RITES

Two Catholic priests, Rev. Joseph T. Shoklee and Rev. Alexander W. Lippert, administered the last rites to the astronauts. They were summoned by telephone from nearby St. Ferdinand Catholic Church.

S. and Bassett were the second and third astronauts killed since the U.S. manned space program began in 1959. Air force Capt. Theodore C. Freeman, 34, died Oct. 31, 1964, after a goose struck the windshield of his T-38 as he was making a landing at Houston after a routine training flight.

NAVY PILOT

S., a native of Dallas, Tex., was a navy pilot from 1953 to 1956. He was selected in the second group of astronauts in 1962. Between 1956 and 1962, he was a flight test engineer and later on experimental test pilot for General Electric Co.

Bassett, a native of Dayton, Ohio, entered the air force in 1962. He was an experimental test pilot for the air force when selected as an astronaut in 1963.

S. is survived by his wife and three children.

Mossler Case

Final Arguments Today In Miami Trial

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The prosecution offered rebuttal testimony Monday against the defence of Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers—then closed its case on the 31st day of the murder trial.

After nine rebuttal witnesses had testified for the state, Circuit Judge George Schulz met with lawyers in his chambers to hear motions and discuss the judge's charge to the 12-man jury.

This will clear the way for final arguments beginning today and the case is expected to go to the jury Wednesday.

CLAIMED LOVERS

Mrs. Mossler, who says she is 40, and Powers, son of her sister, are accused of murdering Mrs. Mossler's multi-millionaire husband, Jacques, 69, June 30, 1964. The state claims Powers and his aunt were lovers.

State attorney Richard Gerstein's rebuttal witnesses apparently were intended to strengthen the testimony of Edward Bart Diehl, San Francisco ex-convict who said Mrs. Mossler and Powers offered him $10,000 to kill Mossler.

WORKED ON RANCH

Diehl testified the alleged proposition was made by Powers—with Mrs. Mossler present—when he worked in 1962 on a Mossler-owned ranch near Galveston, Tex.

He also testified the defendants had sexual relations in a house trailer on the ranch and that his wife quit her cleaning job in disgust.

CALLS HIM LIAR

On the stand, Diehl's ex-wife, now Mrs. Angela Dever, denied all this and said Diehl "could not be believed under oath."

She said she never saw Mrs. Mossler and Powers together at the ranch and she left because she and her husband were not getting along.

But Maj. Manson Hill of the Dade County (Miami) sheriff's department, who headed the Mossler investigation, said Mrs. Dever told a different story when he questioned her April 8, 1965, at Houston.

He said she told him she did see Mrs. Mossler and Powers at the ranch together "six or seven times" and that it was evident "from the messes" in the trailer that they were involved in sexual relations.

Death Plot Admitted

NEW YORK (AP)—Talmadge Hayer, 24, a Negro, confessed in court Monday that he participated in the assassination of Black Nationalist leader Malcolm X.

Hayer told Supreme Court Justice Charles Marks he took part in the assassination with others he refused to name.

Malcolm was shot in the Audubon Ballroom Feb. 21, 1965, as he prepared to address a gathering of Black Nationalists.

Doctor 'Denied Fair Trial'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, gripping his wife's hand tightly, heard his lawyer tell the Supreme Court Monday that "circus publicity" denied the Cleveland osteopath a fair trial by the jury that convicted him of murdering his first wife.

In the climax of Sheppard's 11-year-old legal battle to prove his innocence, lawyer F. Lee Bailey of Boston argued that sensational news coverage and editorializing made Sheppard "guilty until proven innocent" in the eyes of the jury.

VOTE FRIDAY

In reply, Ohio attorney Gen. William Hanft said that "I for one don't feel we have to throw out the first amendment to preserve the sixth." The former guarantees free speech while the latter provides for a speedy trial and impartial jury.

The court will take a secret vote Friday whether to uphold a U.S. circuit court of appeals decision ordering Sheppard back to prison or whether to reverse it and free him of a life sentence. It will hand down its written decision sometime before June.

War Bill Threat Vanishes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A threat to early passage of a bill in the U.S. Senate to authorize more money for the Viet Nam war vanished Monday when a group of peace-minded Democrats dropped plans to offer an amendment.

Speaking for the group, Senator J. W. Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.) announced after two meetings. It was decided the $4,800,000,000 authorization measure is "not a proper vehicle" in which to express opposition to a widening of the Southeast Asian conflict.

Camera Snaps Clouds

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—

The United States orbited a new Easa weather satellite Monday designed to beam instant cloud pictures to forecasters of any nation around the globe as part of America's contribution to the world weather watch.

The $2,600,000 spacecraft joined the first operational Easa weather eye orbited Feb. 3 to give the nation a full-time system of two satellites to maintain a global storm patrol on a routine, daily basis.

Easa 2 was shot into a hard-to-reach, north-south orbit ranging from 843 to 885 miles high by a Delta rocket that scored its 34th orbital success in 37 tries. The shot followed the flawless maiden test flight Saturday of America's first Apollo spaceship and Saturn IB rocket.

The seed cone.
We gather them by the millions... to plant the forests of the future.

Nature is erratic in supplying us with seed cones. Our last big crop was in 1959. That year we gathered over three million cones from our forests. After the cones were graded and dried, some 73 million seeds were extracted, cleaned, sample-tested for germinating power and stored till planting time. Millions of them have already been nursed into sturdy seedlings. They have been planted by our company's foresters in recently logged areas. Some day—in eighty years or so—the new trees will be ready to harvest. Why do we go to all this trouble? Because the forest industry is, by nature, a long-range business. The healthy forests of tomorrow are the best insurance for future jobs...for your grandchildren.

Plush Red Seats

AS ONE OTTAWA report phrased it, "Prime Minister Pearson paid off party workers and defeated (Commons) candidates with plush red seats in the Senate." No fewer than ten of them, all Liberals of course, were gifted with a nice comfortable pew worth $15,000 a year until the recipients reach the age of 75 years.

Any idea ever held that Mr. Pearson, formerly an advocate of Senate reform, might alter the partisan color of such patronage appointments can be forgotten. He runs true to the form that can justifiably be deplored.

It seems almost better than otherwise to be defeated at the polls for a place in the Commons, for to be a senator means all fears of future displacement are at an end. Provided that is that one runs under the right label, although how rejection by the electorate warrants reward for party service could be suitable subject for speculation.

The prime minister's list of new appointees is intriguing. For example there is Mr. Keith Davey, the former campaign director of the Liberal Party whose bad election advice induced him to resign from that post, something that might be thought to cast him in disfavor. Instead he gets one of the plush red seats aforesaid, and since he is but 39 can look forward to collecting a cool half-million in emoluments by the time he passes the Biblical span. The wolf will certainly never get close to his door.

There is the instance of Mr. Argue, also, the prominent former CCF MP who turned Liberal but in his last two parliamentary tries did not manage to get elected under his new colors. When it comes to Senate appointments defeat obviously has virtues even over victory.

There are five more senators to be named, but the new ten gives the Liberals a clear-cut two-to-one majority in the Upper Chamber. Such a balance is superfluous, and Mr. Pearson might have enhanced his reputation by sparing a plush red seat for a non-Liberal. It has always been a queer withholding for instance that Mr. M. J. Coldwell, the former CCF leader and a distinguished national figure, should never have been offered a senatorship.

For that matter, why need the Senate be the preserve only of those active in politics or known to be of a particular party persuasion? There are numerous citizens of stature and capacity unconnected with politics who would grace the Red Chamber with distinction, and much to its advantage.

Apparently it takes a prime minister of courage and breadth of vision to appoint someone other than of his own political faith, and for all the halo his clan puts round his head Mr. Pearson is not of that stuff.

This favored manner of making Senate appointments a matter of sheer partisanship is a good argument that members of the Upper Chamber should, like their fellows of the Commons, be elected by popular suffrage.

Run-Away Price

IT MAY NOT be a matter of general interest that the price of quinine has increased by more than 400 per cent in the past few months, but to sufferers from certain forms of heart trouble, to whom the drug is vital, it is something of consequence.

The reason for this sudden and substantial jump in price remains something of a mystery. The suggestion has been made that the source of the drug—the bark of the cinchona tree—has been denied to producing chemists. Most of the supply comes from Indonesia.

This may be true; although it seems unlikely, with Indonesia in a desperate state of inflation and needing every dollar of foreign currency on which she can lay a hand.

It may be unjust to speculate that the manufacturers have used an alleged shortage as an excuse to increase their prices so spectacularly. But the suspicion nevertheless arises.

It has, in fact, induced the United States Senate to undertake a full inquiry into the cause of the price jump.

Dr. Arthur Ralph, marketing director for one of the distributors of quinine in Canada, said the other day: "Heaven knows whether we have seen the end of the shortage."

So we must assume that Heaven only knows whether the price of the drug has reached its limit.

What steps, if any, are being taken by the Canadian government to investigate this situation have not been disclosed. It is probable that the manufacturer of such supplies as Canadians require is located outside the country. So the U.S. Senate is in a better position to conduct an investigation than any Canadian authority.

But there does seem good reason to expect that the government should exercise some control over the price of this and any other drug, and that an alleged shortage of supply should not be allowed to skyrocket the cost of a commodity which may be a matter of life or death to heart sufferers.

Easier Detection

THE STIFF PENALTIES imposed for impaired driving may well have something to do with high incidence of "hit-run" offences noted in recent times in British Columbia. The police estimate that there were more than 2,000 cases last year in Vancouver alone, and it seems probable that in many of these, the drivers were prompted to leave the scene by dread of the consequences of being found too intoxicated to be at the wheel.

Part of the answer to this situation is to make the price of hitting and running comparable with that of impairment, and there has been an observable trend in this direction by magistrates. Another part is to increase the probability that offenders will be caught, and it is appropriate that the government has now introduced proposed legislation requiring that where accident damage exceeds $100, a car shall not be repaired without police certification that the collision has been reported.

Garages already are obliged to keep a full record of all body repairs made and to supply this information to the police on request—and also to report anything that looks like a bullet mark or a bloodstain. But the new system should greatly facilitate and expedite hit-run detection.

In this, the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association by some strange reasoning sees a police-state threat: presently, its secretary suggests, citizens may need police permission to walk down the street.

Where in this instance is the violation of civil freedom? The association is surely not asserting that breaking the law to escape justice is among our inalienable rights?

Oil Products Road-Lift

Dr. Verwoerd's 'Neutrality' Slips

By STANLEY UYS from Cape Town

A CONFRONTATION between Britain and South Africa over the supply of petrol to Rhodesia is inevitable—unless the oil companies themselves intervene to check the traffic. It must be taken as definite now that Dr. Verwoerd will not yield to pressure to stop the road-lift of petrol across the Rhodesian border at Beit Bridge.

Only now has the significance of Dr. Verwoerd's policy statement on Rhodesia in the South African Parliament on Jan. 25 become apparent. In that statement he said: "If there are producers or traders who have oil or petrol to sell ... to Rhodesia ... then it is their business and we do not interfere."

It was assumed at the time that Dr. Verwoerd was referring to sales of petrol by oil companies to voluntary organizations like the "Petrol for Rhodesia" fund and the announcement thus caused no anxiety.

It was calculated that voluntary organizations could provide Rhodesia with no more than one-fifth of its essential petrol needs for motor vehicles alone. The voluntary organizations rely on public donations and have an ill-assorted road lift.

The voluntary organizations however have emerged as the camouflage for a much more extensive organization involving the Rhodesian-based company Genta (Private) Ltd., which is under contract to the Smith government to receive petrol donations and also to make purchases of oil and other commodities.

Road tankers and other vehicles have been sent from Rhodesia into the Transvaal to fetch supplies and on some days as many as 30,000 gallons have been transported across the border. This petrol supply is helping to keep Rhodesia's essential services running.

South Africa's voluntary contributions of petrol to Rhodesia therefore raised no problems provided they were limited, but now that an organization is being established which might be able to shift sufficient petrol to make an appreciable difference to Rhodesia's petrol position the British government is viewing the position in a different light.

Already Sir Hugh Stephenson, the British ambassador, has expressed his government's "concern" to the South African foreign minister. Dr. Hilgert Muller, and Mr. Wilson has personally communicated the same message to the South African ambassador in London, Dr. Carel de Wet.

Neither government has disclosed what South Africa's official reaction is to the British government's move, but the Verwoerd press has reported bluntly that Britain is trying to exert pressure on Dr. Verwoerd to check the petrol flow.

The angry reaction of the pro-Verwoerd papers and their defiant statements that "South Africa will not bow to Britain" must be taken as a fairly accurate reflection of Dr. Verwoerd's own attitude.

Dr. Verwoerd's case is basically this: he states he is maintaining normal trade and diplomatic relations with Rhodesia and that any intervention in the petrol lift would be tantamount to joining in the sanctions campaign against Rhodesia which he refuses to do.

Attention has shifted temporarily to the five major oil companies in South Africa—Calix, Mobil, Shell, B.P., and Total—all of which apparently have been selling oil destined for Rhodesian consumption. This, strictly speaking, is not the continuation of normal trade relations, because in the past South Africa has never exported oil to Rhodesia.

The five oil companies all draw their oil from Middle Eastern states—especially Iran—which are supporting the oil boycott of Rhodesia. Apart from that the governments of the United States, Britain and France, the respective "home countries" of the companies, are also committed to the boycott.

If the affiliated local companies do not succeed in persuading their employees and agents not to sell oil destined for Rhodesia (in the emotionally charged atmosphere over Rhodesia this is asking a lot, and also obviously one company will not halt supplies if its competitor is selling) the next move will lie with the international companies.

Ultimately these companies are in a position to ration and even suspend South Africa's petrol imports. This would mean the initiation of the not supplying the Smith regime principle of oil sanctions against South Africa—a development Dr. Verwoerd would not like to see.

The only alternative to oil company intervention would be if Britain were to ask the Security Council of the United Nations to make the oil embargo against Rhodesia obligatory, or if, say, one of the Afro-Asian states were to ask for the application of oil and other sanctions to South Africa.

Dr. Verwoerd's policy towards Rhodesia, therefore, is not as strictly neutral as it was during the first three months of UDI. Dr. Verwoerd declared in Parliament that he would avoid entanglement at all costs in the interests of both South Africa and Rhodesia, and that he did not want to make enemies all over the world by intervening in what was essentially a dispute between Britain and Rhodesia.

Whatever the merits of this formalistic approach by Dr. Verwoerd, the fact is that internationally the view might be taken that, even if Dr. Verwoerd's government itself is not supplying the Smith regime

Washington Calling

Good Man for a Peace Offensive

By MAX FREEDMAN

NO one has ever accused Lyndon Johnson of failing to recognize the political realities. He can spot trouble on the horizon when it is no bigger than a man's hand. In this light those who have followed his career foresee certain coming events in an election year in the midst of an unpopular land war in Asia. The president, so this reasoning goes, is too thorough a pro to go into the campaign next fall without making important changes in the Johnson team calculated to give a new—and more hopeful—look to the struggle in Southeast Asia.

The speculation is that Arthur J. Goldberg, currently U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will replace Dean Rusk as secretary of state. The guessing is that this will happen before the end of the summer. Goldberg will then direct a new peace offensive coinciding with a buildup in American forces close to 300,000.

The logic behind this is plain enough. As ambassador to the UN Goldberg has more than any single figure in the administration identified himself with the peace offensive. In the peace offensive he carried the word to Pope Paul, President Charles de Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Wilson. At the present urgent request at the beginning of a vacation-rest cure in the Bahamas, partly necessitated by middle age, he has been plugging him through the General Assembly session. Goldberg led on the strenuous assignment.

He is believed to have been the principal persuader in getting the administration to take the Viet Nam issue to the Security Council despite repeated statements this would never happen. While the move has seemed abortive, in that the United States has not pressed for a debate on the resolution, it nevertheless pleased advocates of UN participation in the Viet Nam crisis.

From the day that Goldberg agreed to leave the Supreme Court to be Adlai Stevenson's successor President Johnson has rarely missed an opportunity to put him favorably in the public eye. The UN ambassador is in Washington almost as much as he is in New York and a lot of his time is spent in the president's office. On Monday of last week Goldberg was with Johnson for three hours and then told reporters he continued to be hopeful that in private talks within the Security Council Viet Nam peace talks can be arranged.

Bus Passes for Pensioners

IN Calgary all pensioners who receive old-age assistance supplementary allowance, and all blind persons registered with CNIB have been in receipt of free bus passes for more than 10 years. Hours are not restricted, but there is an unwritten agreement that the buses be not boarded during the rush periods.

Both transportation and electrical systems are owned by the city of Calgary, a corporation which has far fewer resources than B.C. Hydro.

On this is significant. Some years ago two outlying municipalities, Bowness and Forest Lawn, finally ended their quarrel with Calgary, and amalgamated to make it one united city.

Street Signs

May I congratulate you on your beautiful city. It is one of which you should be very proud. Its elegant decor is inspiring to all who appreciate a city subtly and tastefully furnished with an abundance of flowers and fountains.

I am a fair, new resident of Victoria and I would like to point out that there is one small flaw which is a little difficult to understand, considering the thoughtfulness of your city planners. The system of signs for designating street names leaves much to be desired, especially for a stranger who will naturally be confused with the newness of the surroundings. Perhaps because of the town planners' emphasis for understatement in the design of what are often eye-sores of a community, the signs are virtually

The CPR

The greatness of the CPR is in its institution from which have emerged the qualities of integrity, loyalty, industry and ability, the results of which have been woven into the fabric of Canadian history, particularly in the development of the western provinces.

To know Canada one must know the story of the CPR and it is recorded by Mr. R. G. MacBeth, a son of a Selkirk settler, who grew up with the west. This book entitled The Romance of the Canadian Pacific Railway is a vast information source for the student of Canadian affairs and will be invaluable in the library as a reference book. The history of the CPR belies the slander of the present.

Park Townsite

I would like to congratulate Mr. Harold McWilliams, director of the Parks Branch, for his stand on a mining townsite in Strathcona Provincial Park, as reported in the Colonist on February 15.

He is reported to take the stand that a townsite within the park is "entirely foreign" to the setting of a natural park and that Western Mines should locate their town outside the park on the Gold River road.

We are indeed fortunate to have a man of his experience, and in his position, who is unafraid to come forward and oppose politicians and big business alike, in an effort to save our provincial parks from further destruction.

It is not right that the only wilderness park on Vancouver Island should be subjected to this sort of treatment by a company which is obviously only there because of the money it can get out of it.

According to Mr. Kiernan, minister of recreation and conservation, we cannot stop the development of this mine but apparently a decision still is to be made regarding the dumping of mine tailings into the lake and the location of the mining town. It would therefore appear logical that Mr. Kiernan would best serve the people of B.C. if he was to follow the advice of his own parks director rather than follow the advice of Western Mines directors.

North Ward

I was glad to see the piece in the Colonist by Bill Staveland re the North Ward School children. I once lived adjacent to that school and I could not help but be impressed by the total integration of those children. A puzzle of the meaning of which I doubt they would understand. Their spontaneous acceptance of and concern for each other would shame most adults.

Disparity

Referring to your article, Unbalanced Score, as well as the facts you mention you could have reminded our members of Parliament that a vast sum of the federal government's money was spent to provide a permanent link between Cape Breton Island and the mainland, and also that an even larger expenditure is in prospect to construct a causeway between Prince Edward Island and the mainland.

Island populations in eastern Canada obviously obtain much more consideration than those in the west. Why?

Dramatic Inflation

MR. Barry Mather, humorist at turned member of Parliament from Vancouver may have come across Canada's most dramatic case of inflation.

In the Commons the other day he enquired about the daily per capita cost of CBC radio and television. Three cents for radio and nine cents for television was his answer. That was for the 1965-66 fiscal year.

Well, there were 19 million people in Canada in 1964, so each day they contributed 226 million cents and the total for the year was $2 billion, 480 million.

And to think it used to be just one "penny for your thoughts"!

Island to Boom If Gas Found, Loffmark Says

Vancouver Island will see a surge of heavy industrial development if Shell Oil finds natural gas during its offshore drilling, says Trade and Commerce Minister Loffmark. "If they hit gas out there, it would change the economy of the whole island," he said in an interview. "Cheap fuel would open up the island because industries looking for tidewater would no longer be confined to the Lower Mainland."

LAND — "Land would be easier to find over here, and you could bring down iron ore and iron concentrates. There would be metal fabrication and cheaper pulp and paper operations." Mr. Loffmark said the finding of gas would also eliminate the Port Alberni air pollution problem, because gas would be cleaner than the "hog fuel" (sawdust, bark and other wood refuse) which is now being used at the pulp mill.

PIPER RESTRICTIVE

Gas piped to Vancouver Island from the Mainland would be too expensive to bring about an industrial revolution mentioned above, he added.

It would be comparatively easy to span Seymour Narrows north of Campbell River with a suspension bridge gas pipeline, but this gas would be expensive because of the cost of transmitting it here from north-eastern B.C., he said.

The cost of moving gas through a pipeline is higher than the cost of drilling, said Mr. Loffmark. But there would be no need for such an expensive pipeline if gas was found off the island.

Crown, Fringe On Top

Queen Rides in Surrey

NASSAU (AP) — The Queen rode down a Nassau street Monday in the Bahamas Islands, shining survey, with a foot-tall crown as well as a fringe on top.

The first reigning monarch to visit these tourist-jammed islands during three centuries of British rule appeared to enjoy her five-minute ride to a display of native arts and crafts called Bahamarams.

Dressed in a two-piece white and pink tulle outfit with a matching turban, the Queen sat with Prince Philip in the survey's back seat.

Howard Smith, who has been transporting tourists in horse-drawn rigs for 33 of his 65 years, was in the driver's seat. The sleek black survey was pulled by 12-year-old Pepe Cola, a grey gelding who, in his day, was a champion Bahamian racer. He wore a fancy Bahamian straw hat.

Howard was proclaimed the Bahamas' Survey Man of the Year in 1965 and the government of the colony donated his spiffy new rig as a reward.

LAST APPEARANCE — The crown on the top made history in survey annals.

It was the Queen's final public appearance on a two-day visit.

She began the afternoon program with a reception aboard the royal yacht Britannia. Then she and the prince proceeded to the RAF cemetery, where she placed a wreath at a white marble cenotaph.

At the Bahamarams, a calypso musician, Count Bernadino, told Bernadino, "You need an electronics engineer here."

'Super' Forests Not Far Away

By BILL STAYDAI.

Question: when is a Douglas fir tree like cattle and corn, roses and race horses?

Answer: when it's scientifically bred for a better product.

That time is coming soon in B.C. forests. Thursday at Victoria's Forest Research Laboratory, a group of foresters from industry and government learned techniques that will be in common use in a few years.

SPECIAL TRAITS

The demonstration forest-shaded a time when today's logging will seem as primitive as the haphazard harvesting of wild grain by early man.

Watching pollination by hypodermic needle Thursday, foresters looked forward to the day when most commercially-important trees would be planted of genetically-superior stock.

They foresaw a species of fast-growing, straight-grained, knot-free fir that would produce more wood per acre per year.

GRAFTS

Thursday's meeting of the Tree Improvement Board at the forest lab was a milestone for Dr. Alan Orr-Ewing, research forester for the B.C. Forest Service, and Gerry Burch, forester for B.C. Forest Products. Seven years ago they founded the group, composed of representatives from government forestry departments and private enterprise.

Genetics, Research Paying Off

A decade ago, Dr. Orr-Ewing began the B.C. Forest Service's program of rearing superior fir as breeding stock. The one-to-a-thousand "elite trees," or "plus trees" as they are called, supplied branch tips which were grafted to ordinary root stock to mature.

CONTROLS

Large logging companies followed suit and today the growing shoots of the parent elite trees are ready to produce seeds. But the cross-breeding must be controlled, and that's why Thursday's demonstration was held.

Dr. Orr-Ewing showed the technique with a plastic-wound bag and hypodermic needle. The needle was filled with fir pollen in water, and readily pierced the bag to fertilize the budding cone.

ORCHARDS

Later, when the breeding stock has produced enough offspring of proven quality, pollination will be left to nature in large planted tracts.

Sven Rasmussen, chairman of the Tree Improvement Board said his firm, the Tahsis Co.

Ltd., is into tree improvement in a big way.

It has three tree orchards at Gold River and has just bought 25 acres on the Saanich Peninsula.

DECADE

The milder climate here matures stock from Nootka Sound faster, he explained, and produces seed more often.

"We hope all our tree-planting will be with superior cones in 10 years," he said.

"It's the same as cattle-breeding and fruit-growing."

"I hope I'll be around to see the beginning of the results — if I live a long time."

DILEMMA

The Tree Improvement Board faces a big decision now that seed stock is maturing.

The decision is whether to take the short-term gains from 10 years of work and start planting superior cones, or whether to push on with a co-ordinated program of cross-breeding to produce super-trees.

"There's no field harder to sell than genetics," Mr. Burch observed. He explained that it's especially hard to persuade a board of directors to invest money in research when none of them will live to see the results.

Most foresters are cautious about predicting the results of their work. Some look forward to shortening the planting-harvest cycle by 10 per cent, but Mr. Burch is more optimistic. "I personally think it could be in the neighborhood of 30 per cent," he said.

Flu Epidemic Waning

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — Absenteeism dropped markedly in Los Angeles city public schools Monday, and health officials said the influenza outbreak "will probably taper off from now on."

The public schools said a spot check showed only 12 per cent of the pupils absent—or about 88,000 out of 775,000 students. Last Friday 18 per cent of the enrollment was absent. Teacher absences were down to 5 per cent, compared with 7 per cent last Friday. This meant that 1,500 teachers were ill, only 1 per cent more than normal, school officials said.

Gabby Passenger Jailed

Albert Swanson talked too much when he was crossing by ferry to Swartz Bay Friday night. He told a passenger he was a "safe man" and he had 10 detonators with him.

Victoria police were notified and the next day they were at the bus terminal when Swanson picked up his baggage.

They found Swanson had six electric blasting caps with him.

GUILTY PLEA
Swanson, of Vancouver, pleaded guilty in central magistrate's court Monday to unlawfully having explosives in his possession and was jailed for two years.

A similar charge against Swanson's companion was withdrawn by the Crown.

Det. Richard Berry said Swanson told him he had found the detonators in an alley in Vancouver "several days ago."

'BLOW HAND OFF'
Det. Berry told the court the caps could be used for safe-breaking and blasting stumps.

"I discharged by accident, they could blow your hand off," Det. Berry said.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said Swanson had previous convictions for assault, breaking and entering and theft, and robbery with violence.

'OLD TRICKS'
Swanson told Magistrate William Ostler: "I didn't realize the seriousness of it." Magistrate Ostler: "You say that, but of course you do not expect me to believe it. . . . It looks like you are back to your old tricks."

Theodore Stephens, described by Magistrate Ostler as a "sick man in need of treatment," was jailed for two years for breaking into McGill and Orme, 1171 Cook, Wednesday and stealing about $150 worth of drugs.

Stephens, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to the charge Saturday. He had said then that withdrawal from drug addiction caused him to commit the crime.

Magistrate Ostler said the gravity of the offence and Stephens' previous record would bring, under ordinary circumstances, a heavy sentence.

CONVICTIONS
He passed the lighter sentence after viewing what he termed "mitigating circumstances."

Stephens had previous convictions for break-ins and theft.

JAMES GRANT LAURIE, awaiting sentence for four break-ins, admitted to a fifth Monday.

He pleaded guilty to breaking into Sandy's Auto Wrecking Co. Ltd., 1023 View on Nov. 2.

Det. Walter Caldwell said Laurie forced the rear door open and stole cash and cigarettes from a machine.

REMANDED
Laurie, 660 Adams, was remanded to Wednesday for sentence.

He previously admitted two break-ins in Saanich and Colwood in January and February.

POLICE ADVISED Franklin Joseph Haire to go home when they saw him at the Oak Bay A and W Drive-In early Sunday morning.

But Haire, 2259 Dalhousie, didn't follow the advice and was arrested a little more than an hour later for impaired driving.

Mr. Birkett said Haire turned off Douglas on to Fort at high speed, went through two red lights and drove for several blocks with his headlights out.

At one stage, Haire almost hit a pedestrian, court was told. A breathalyzer reading of .10 per cent was taken.

He was fined $350 and his licence was suspended.

Clifford Maltby drove down Highway 1A on the wrong side near Four Mile Hill, court was told.

Maltby, 2465 Sooke, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

A youth who took just what money he needed when he broke into Grant's Variety Centre, 3093 Sheilbourne, was given a suspended sentence.

Glen Morris Leach, 3110 Kingsley, was placed on a $250 good behavior bond for a year.

He pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to stealing $36 from the store.

ISOLATED
Magistrate Ostler said he was satisfied Leach was not the criminal type and that the offence was an isolated affair.

A marble desk set proved too much of a temptation for 30-year-old David Belford Stephen.

Hallmark Gift Shop, 2855A Foul Bay, Feb. 19.

Stephen, 1700 Forrester, was remanded to March 7 for a pre-sentence report.

MAGISTRATE OSTLER gave Charles Ivan Wightman some advice before fining him $300 for impaired driving.

"I hope you give serious consideration to cutting down on your drinking before it's too late."

Wightman, 4101 Tyndall, had pleaded guilty last week. His licence was suspended for six months but he was allowed to drive for business purposes.

B.C. Gas Fire 'Just Average'

PORT NELSON, B.C. (CP) — A gas and oil well fire fighting specialist from Texas says that "with a little luck" he can snuff out a gas-well fire about 50 miles northeast of here by Wednesday.

Edward "Coots" Mathews of Houston, a top hand of famed Texas firefighter Red Adair, described the fire as "average."

It is being fed by 50,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas every 24 hours.

Chinooks Back in Form For Tourney Opener

By JIM TAYLOR

Victoria Chinooks rediscovered their lost poise Monday night, beat Halifax All-Saints, 7-50, and set up a gorgeous second-round draw tonight in the Canadian junior men's basketball tournament.

In the winners' bracket of the double-loss tournament tonight at Central Junior High School, it will be the Chinooks vs. Montreal Orchids in a replay of last year's Canadian final, and the ever-gunning Mt. Royal College Cougars of Calgary against the defence-minded UBC Jayvees.

Chinooks, who showed signs of rattling as they lost the B.C. final in three straight games to the Jayvees, may have got quite a break when they drew the All-Saints in the opening round.

They were put up against a team so weak defensively they got a chance to use every player they possess. Most of them worked and, as coach Ollie Goldsmith put it later, his club finally found out for sure that they still know how to play this game.

Opening night drew about 800 fans, and they got quite a show. Chinooks got 16 points each from Barney Spaven, Ron Bowker and Ken Jackson, got good rebounding from Brian Brumwell in the early going, and generally turned in a promising effort as they began defence of their title.

For All-Saints, it was a different story.

TOO TALKATIVE

The Halifax club stayed close for a while, but bickered and complained at officiating throughout. When it was over they had two technical fouls, two deliberate fouls and one player, Louie Dixon, disqualified.

And the ironic part about it was that until they started moaning they were in the game.

BENCH PLAY

Chinooks had a 40-19 lead at half time, and from there Goldsmith used his bench, never leaving his starting five in the game intact.

From the first-round scores, the draw was made at-out as perfectly as anyone could ask. No game was decided by less than 15 points.

LOSER OUT

Tonight at 5, it will be Hamilton Quileys vs. Fredericton Elms, the loser being eliminated. Cougars and Jayvees played at 7:30, and Chinooks and Montreal Orchids at 9.

The game of the night could well be between Jayvees and Cougars. The Calgary club took 82 shots last night in beating Hamilton, and plays a fast-breaking game all the way. Jayvees can score, but they rely on defence. Something has to give.

BIG JOB

For Chinooks, the big job according to advance reports will be in stopping Ray Mitchell, who is averaging 34 points per game for the Orchids.

Victoria Chinooks—Ron Stubbings 4, Brian Melnyk 2, Rick Humber 3, Don Frampton 4, Barry Burch 5, Ken Jackson 16, Barry Turner, Barry Spaven 16, Bowker 15, Doug Gray 4, Brian Brumwell 2, Total—72.
Halifax All-Saints—Irving Cohen 20, Rod McKenzie, Louie Dixon 20, Don Horvath, Dave McLellan, Allen Watt, Peter Morrison 4, Leigh Ford 10, Jim Lovett 18. Total—50.

Cougars Bring Finesse and Fans to Canadian Basketball Finals

Play-making guard Skip Cronk of Calgary's Mount Royal College Cougars bats away pass intended for Hamilton's Jim Hajus in first game of Canadian junior men's basketball tournament. Cougars won, 81-63, and play UBC Jayvees in second round tonight at Central Junior High School.

Should Have Had Record by Now

Two Missing Goals Haunt Bobby Hull

Bobby Hull set a new National Hockey League record on Sunday night in Chicago when he whipped the puck past Boston rookie Bernie Parent in the last minute of the second period. It was Hull's 51st scoring shot of the season, but that counts two that didn't count and Hull with 14 games left he appears to be a clinch to get more than 50 goals. And, now, also to set a new record for points in one season.

In addition to his 49th official goal, Hull also drew four assists in Sunday's 7-1 rout of the Bruins.

This boosted Hull's total to 84 points for the 51 games he has played, only 12 fewer than the NHL record of 96 points in one season set by Dickie Moore.

HABR SIZZLE
Victory kept the Hawks in a first-place tie with Montreal's sizzling Canadiens, who got another big game out of Jean Beliveau as they slipped down the slump-ridden Detroit Red Wings, 5-3.

still needs two more goals to break the record of 50 set by Maurice Richard and later tied by Bernie Geoffrion and Hull.

But for errors by officials, Hull would have had 50 goals in the first 50 games he played this season and a new record in his 51st game.

He lost bona fide goals in New York on Dec. 5 and in Chicago in a game against Montreal Canadiens on Jan. 23. Replays of television tape on each occasion proved beyond doubt that Hull should have been credited with goals.

In the first instance, one of Hull's terrific shots streaked by New York goalkeeper Ed Giacomin and came right back into play. The goal judge didn't see it and there was no red light, and his decision was backed up by referee John Ashley in turning down Chicago protests.

POINT SHOT
In Chicago on Jan. 23, Hull got his stick on a point shot taken by Pat Stapleton but the official scorer refused to change his decision that it was Stapleton's goal despite repeated protests from the Hawks and press-box watchers who had seen the deflection.

In this case, too, replay of the television tape showed that Hull should have been credited with the goal.

However, the original rulings had to stand and Hull still has his record to get. Fortunately,

Harper Canadian Finalist

SMITHERS — Gler Harper, two-time British Columbia men's champion, will play in a Canadian final for the third time later this month.

Skipping for his wife, Margyret, and By and Vera Wilson, the Duncan curling star won the provincial mixed championship here Monday by defeating Kelowna's John Smart in the best-of-three final.

Smart won the first game, 8-5, but Harper came back to win the next two, 6-4 and 7-6.

Harper and his rink now go to Fort William for the Canadian final March 21-26.

Sorry Ole Diz That's Show Biz

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Diszy Dean said Monday he has been fired as the sportscaster for the Baseball Game of the Week.

In an interview with television station WJTV, Dean said the National Broadcasting Company had asked him to retire and that he had "vigorously refused."

"It was just a nice way of telling me I was fired," said the former star pitcher of St. Louis Cardinals, who has been broadcasting baseball for 24 years.

In the evening, B.C. recovered from a 5-1 deficit after four three ends, going ahead, 8-5.

Mrs. Marg, Cooke and her rink from the Vancouver Curling Club fought uphill battles to edge Quebec, 10-9, after an extra end and then got by defending-champion Manitoba, 10-7, in the evening draw.

Twenty-two-year-old Nicole Janelle and her Port Alfred rink scored two on the ninth end and stole a point on the 10th to force an extra end.

Barbara MacNevin and her Saskatchewan rink from Delta used the big-end strategy to defeat Newfoundland, 10-7, and New Brunswick, 9-7. Four-ends to edge New Brunswick, 11-10, then romped a bit in an 11-6 win over Quebec.

Bertoia Named Shamrock Coach

Bert Bertoia, who was with Victoria Shamrocks when they spent most of their time in the winner's circle, will coach them this year as they try to get back in.

Bertoia was named Monday to replace Jim McNeill, who was forced through pressure of business to quit the Inter-City Lacrosse League club.

Club president Doug Fletcher describes him as a student of the game and "an outstanding choice" to lead the Shamrocks away from the last place they occupied last year.

Shamrocks will be doing a great deal of rebuilding this year, dipping into the ranks of their Junior Shamrock club.

Addition of junior scoring champion Ranjit Dillon and defence-man John Lauvaas, plus some players who still have junior eligibility, is expected to help them take a shot at a playoff berth.

Mrs. Lee, who has her sister, June Coyle, throwing lead rocks and 19-year-old Sharon Harrington at second, won when she raised a rock into counting position with her last shot. Mrs. Beek, a soupaw, was light trying to outdraw the raised rock.

Jayvees' Bench Proves Its Value

The thing about UBC Jayvees is that they always come up with the people to get the job done. It was never more evident than in last night's 82-57 victory over Fredericton Elms.

Ken Kern got them started, scoring eight of their first 14 points. With the score 19-18, Kern hurt his ankle.

In came Bob Molinski, the forward who played guard and checked Victoria's Ken Jackson to a standstill in the B.C. final.

Now Molinski was back at forward. He scored 18 points, and grabbed 13 rebounds.

Sam Vandermeulen scored 14 points, Joe Kainer and Dave Rice got 11 each, and Kern finished with 10. But mostly, Jayvees simply closed the door on defence.

Elms have some fine basketball players, particularly Gary Crandemire and Dave Nutbrown. But last night they were a tired basketball club, a team that arrived in Victoria only 2 1/2 hours before they had to take the court.

In the other game, Mt. Royal College Cougars of Calgary showed they have height, speed and five good shooters. All to gether, they have entirely too much for Hamilton Quileys, even on a night when they are not shooting too well.

Cougars' new past the Quileys, 81-63, and all five starters hit double figures. But as a team, they did not hit with any consistency despite that impressive final score.

UBC Jayvees—Phil Langley 8, Joe Kainer 11, Reinhardt Rummensheller 17, Glen Carter 1, Bob Molinski 18, Sam Vandermeulen 14, Ken Kern 10, Dave Rice 11, Alex Quinn. Total—82.

Federicton Elms—Bob Rasmussen 18, Ron White 12, Dave Nutbrown 12, Mason Coles 1, Murray Watt, Gary Crandemire 18, Ron Milton 1, Bill Saunders. Total—57.

Mt. Royal Cougars—Wayne Haldane 17, Phil Stoenoff 2, Bill Newcombe 2, Skip Cronk 12, Ashley Court 13, Dan Quares 14, Dick Walker, Pete Jeffrey 14, Ken Lockwood 2, Don Andrews 4. Total—81.

Hamilton Quileys—Daryl Bowman 18, Jim O'Leary 16, Vic Vlasovskis 8, Carl Clark 12, Bruce Moseley, Bob White, John Kennedy, Jim Balas 12, Peter Della Riva 4, Peter Conlon 6. Total—66.

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

For the first time a pair of Cowichan Golf Club members are holders of the Victoria District open buttons.

The historic event took place Sunday at Victoria Golf Club when Norm Boden and Mike Kolb of the Duncan club finished with a 3 and 2 victory margin over Uplands' Gordon Fallow and Frank Scroggs.

It was the first time the Cowichan club had officially sponsored a team in the Victoria District buttons, although on one occasion in the past two members of that club—Gordon Whan and Clayton Wright—participated unsuccessfully.

This happened, however, before the conditions of the buttons were changed from individual entry to entry of a team chosen by the club itself.

Kolb put Cowichan in the lead with a birdie four on the first hole and the Uplanders never relinquished their advantage in a well-fought match.

Both Boden and Kolb when they were members of Gorge Vale and Colwood clubs respectively had previously played in local buttons matches, but in their new Cowichan partnership they present an attractive addition to the buttons personnel.

Incidentally, Boden who until last fall was greenkeeper-pro at Mount Brenton, now has the official title of playing and teaching pro at Cowichan. The pro's job however is unchanged. Mel Evans who has long been with the Duncan club remains in that post.

Next buttons challengers will come from the Victoria Club, and a medal round will be played this week to decide which team is to represent the Oak Bay club. Last time up it was Vaughn Trapp and Bill McColl.

The match will be played Sunday at Royal Colwood.

A chill kept Roger Bopp out of the junior buttons Sunday, but his partner Al Cliff called in Don Billabrough as a substitute and the long winning streak of the Uplands club remained unbroken.

The Cliff-Billabrough competition was too much for Roy Howard and J. Floyd of Colwood and the challengers toppled 6 and 5.

If Bishop is fit he will return to the defending team at Royal Colwood on Sunday. If not Billabrough will continue.

The challengers this week are H. Cliff, a brother of Al and A. Brown, both members of the Uplands club.

The Douglas Gollands have agreed to host the annual Victoria District golf clinic during the period of the Easter school holidays.

The district junior chairman is Tony Ritchie of Cedar Hill and arrangements are being made to stage the lessons on April 12-13-14 with all the leading district golf pros as instructors.

Entry forms will be advertised in the local press, and this year there will be classes for experienced as well as tyro golfers. Last year the lessons were designed for beginners.

The first big golf event of the new season is now less than a month away.

The first round of the Vancouver Island match play championship will be played at Uplands Sunday, March 27. It will be confined to 160 players, who will be admitted on the lowest handicap basis. Entry fee is $5, and as usual the top 32 gross scores qualify for the match play championship. The top 32

AHL Trip Next Week

Leafs Open Drive To Overtake Bucks

With weekend developments practically making nothing worse than a second-place finish certain, Victoria Maple Leafs are looking ahead to a drive which could regain them the Western Hockey League lead.

They are five points behind Portland Buckaroos, two games closer to the end of their schedule, facing a rugged, eight-game road trip which will keep them away from home for almost three weeks and still without an experienced goal-keeper. But they still think they can make it.

"It looks like we are out of our slump now," manager Buck Houle said. "If this club plays like it did on Saturday night we could have a real good road trip."

It starts Wednesday of next week in San Francisco and from there it's to Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Providence, Baltimore, Hershey, Springfield and Quebec before returning to Memorial Arena on March 23 for a game against Vancouver Canucks.

The eight games are to be played in 12 days but before the Leafs start and after their return they have a chance to make up ground.

They play three games this week, hosting San Francisco tomorrow night and Seattle on Saturday and visiting Vancouver on Friday. After their return from the east, the Leafs have six of their remaining seven games on home ice.

NEED HAND
"If somebody gives us a hand by beating Portland three or four times we can still win this," says Houle.

Meanwhile, Houle encountered no success yesterday in the search to find a replacement for goalkeeper Al Miller.

No progress was made on an effort to make a deal with Providence Reds of the American Hockey League and rookie Gary Holland remains as the only available netminder.

ONE MORE
Holland can still play one more game before his five-game trial period has been used up but Houle plans to get an extension of three games.

That would make Holland available for four more games without making any decision on whether to sign him to a professional contract.

"We have to get another goalkeeper soon," Houle said. "We will but who he will be and grants," said Mr. Macfarlane. "I will never solve the problem."

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell issued a challenge that the Union of B.C. Municipalities or any other municipal group offer a better financing formula than is now in use.

Mr. Strachan answered with another challenge: that the government include in the bill the $12,000,000 more coming to municipalities if the previous formula—denied by Mr. Bennett—were used.

Mr. Strachan said under that formula, a combination of sales tax and car licence money, the government would be giving $35,000,000 to municipalities and not the $23,000,000 in this year's budget.

Dudley Little (B.C. Skeena) cast the only dissenting vote when the debate ended. He did not speak in the debate to explain his position.

An opening statement that the bill providing for $37,000,000 to pay off the ferry debt would mean rates would not go up came in for attack by opposition speakers.

Mr. Strachan complained that "we are not allowed access to the accounts of the ferry authority" and that the premier had said many times the crown corporation was self-supporting. It is now obvious, Mr. Strachan said, that the claims "were untrue."

He charged that government management of the fleet "deliberately destroyed" the workers as a bargaining unit by bringing them under civil service legislation.

The premier answered the charges with one of his own — the opposition is "trying to mislead."

He said a 1961 Public Bodies Act provides that such corporations must make full financial reports, and "never once did I say . . . public money would not go into the ferry authority."

Mr. Bennett said a two and a half per cent subsidy is included in the act establishing the authority and that the lump sum payment does the same subsidizing job but in only one year.

To charges that ferry workers work odd hours and get few weekends off, he said:

"Nowhere else are conditions so good as in our ferry fleet. 'Every single person sleeps in their own bed every night — or at least I hope they do.'"

He recovered from the ensuing laughter by saying those who don't sleep in their own beds are likely in hotels while going about their business and Canada's business.

There were increased costs, he said, basically increased wages for ferry employees who could see the manager at any time — "the door is always open."

Welfare Minister and Provincial Secretary Black told the house that increased aid in the Medical Grant Act would involve about 64,000 persons covered by the B.C. medical plan.

The bill provides a subsidy of 90 per cent subsidy who are not liable to pay income tax.

It gives a 50 per cent subsidy for those who originally got a 25 per cent subsidy and whose taxable income was less than $1,000.

Mr. Black said there are 85,944 subscribers to the plan which covers 198,244 persons including dependents.

The 90 per cent subsidy will be given to 51,716 persons and the 50 per cent subsidy to 12,648.

Don't be a cough disturber

Are you one of those who cough and disturb your friends and family, causing them restless nights, as well as yourself? If you are suffering from a cough due to colds or bronchial irritation, then you owe it to everyone around you to enjoy that wonderful fast relief from Buckley's Mixture today. Buckley's Mixture is the completely different cough remedy known for its fast action. That is why over 50 million bottles have been sold and Buckley's fame has now spread to some twenty countries. Lucky you that this grand cough remedy is sold everywhere in Canada, even in the Arctic where lives depend on fast fast fast relief.

Over 50 million bottles of Buckley's Mixture have been sold around the world.

However, Mr. Macdonald thought the government was not going far enough.

"I only wish we could drag this government, kicking and screaming as they may be, into national medicare," he said.

"Why should we divide people into classes?"

He predicted that unless the government came up with a universal plan and premiums were removed that "premiums will pull this government down at the polls."

Rabies Spread Alarming

GENEVA (UPI)—The World Health Organization reported Monday a world-wide outbreak of rabies, the worst of its kind for 100 years.

The outbreak involves wild animals in Europe, Asia, Africa and the Americas, W.H.O. said.

In 1922, it said, a total of 1,653 people died from the disease and 486, 915 received vaccine treatment. Indications are that rabies is continuing to spread.

Eight wild animals are mainly concerned in the transmission of rabies—foxes, jackals, wolves, coyotes, skunks, mongooses, weasels and bats.

Wilson

March 31

Election Called In U.K.

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson Monday called a general election for March 31 in a confident bid to crush the Conservative threat to his precarious Labor government majority of three.

Queen Elizabeth, aboard her Royal yacht in the Caribbean, radioed the order for the dissolution of parliament on March 30, which will open a three-week campaign for the 38,000,000 eligible voters.

The 49-year-old prime minister, convinced he was riding the crest of a wave of popularity after only 500 days in office, elected to go to the nation for a new and stronger mandate for the next five years.

POLLS OPTIMISTIC

Optimistic polls predicted that on the basis of present trends, Wilson could expect to increase his parliamentary majority by 50 to 100 seats. However, public apathy for an election so soon after the October 1964 test, and a variety of other factors could affect the outcome.

In the next 10 days parliament will rush through necessary financial legislation to carry the nation over the campaign period until the new government meets.

ELECTION HAILED

Opposition Leader Edward Heath welcomed the election as an opportunity for the Conservatives to "expose the failures" of the government.

"They are holding a general election before the consequences of their mismanagement becomes obvious," he said.

CONSERVATIVES PESSIMISTIC

Political observers felt that Heath has not yet succeeded in inspiring and uniting the Conservative party since he took over as leader last summer in the aftermath of recriminations which shook the party on its defeat after 13 consecutive years in power. However, some noticed what they claimed was a recent increase in Heath's confidence and drive.

Liberal party chairman Lord Byers said the election would give Liberals the chance to promote their "imaginative ideas and hard-headed facts which make people think."

Heath, looking grim-faced, was cheered when he went to Conservative party headquarters Monday night where staff members were waiting. But there was no jubilation at the Labor headquarters.

"There's no panic here," a caretaker said. "We have been prepared for weeks."

Flu Bug Hits Applicant

Rezoning Bid Shot Down

By JIM BRAMAN

When only one side of a question is heard, it can hardly be called a public hearing, Coun. Digby Kler argued Monday night.

However, four Saanich councillors disagreed and rejected an application to rezone the northwest corner of Gilmford and Vanalman for commercial and heavy industrial uses.

There was standing room only in the council chamber for last night's hearing, with Coun. Leslie Passmore as acting reeve.

Applicant John Chew's solicitor told the hearing that his firm had been hired that morning, as both Mr. Chew and his original solicitor had been taken ill and could not be present.

The solicitor asked for an adjournment of the hearing and explained that as he had been retained only hours before, he could not speak for the application.

The chamber was filled with ratepayers who spoke against the proposed rezoning. Most objected to noise, heavy traffic, threatened safety of their children going to and from school, and the unsightliness of the storage of heavy equipment.

One ratepayer spoke in favor of the application, but was ruled out when he admitted he did not live in the immediate area of the proposed rezoning.

Coun. Alan Newberry moved to reject the application. "A public hearing must hear both sides of the question," Coun. Kler said. "Who can say tomorrow that I'm not going to be sick?"

"This stuff hits with a bang," he said.

Coun. William Campbell said that if Mr. Chew had the room full of people it still wouldn't convince him that the property should be rezoned for heavy industrial uses.

Coun. Edward Lum and Coun. Passmore sided with Coun. Kler in the argument that both sides should be heard.

Councillors Newberry, Campbell, Harold Todd and William Noel voted to reject the application.

"I think it was rather undemocratic," said Mr. Chew from his home Monday night.

He said it was unfortunate both he and his solicitor had been hit with the "flu-bug," and he was disappointed they did not get the chance to be heard.

He said he was not sure what he was going to do about it until after he had talked with his solicitor.

Crash Program Speeding Urban Renewal

A team of assessors and appraisers and a second group of social workers are busy this week in the Rose-Blanshard area, compiling information which will eventually be incorporated in a master plan for renewal of the district.

The teams moved in after the city decided on a crash program to get the urban renewal project into high gear.

The need for speed was highlighted recently by the controversy over North Ward School. Parents demanded action in the rebuilding of the decrepit institution.

Inasmuch as the new school is to be located in the rehabilitated area and its construction is an integral part of the whole project, unease about the school had the effect of accelerating the overall scheme, although the school will be built on its original schedule.

First phase of the master plan will see the complete renewal of the area bounded by Blanshard, Rose and Hillside, with a southern dogleg to Kings.

It will entail the tearing down and rebuilding of homes, and this is where the assessors and appraisers come in. The social workers are doing a door-to-door survey to determine the economic circumstances of the people in the area.

ABILITY TO PAY

City Planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh explained that accurate knowledge in this regard is necessary, as the re-housing plan will be based on the ability of the area's people to pay.

The assessors and appraisers should be through their work by mid-March, Mr. Greenhalgh said Monday, and the social workers shortly after. Then comes the big job of tabulating and evaluating the information gained.

BASIS FOR PLAN

Upon this information will be built the plan for the rehabilitated area.

It is likely that the city will favor a low-rental housing scheme designed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the organization through which the federal government controls such urban renewal plans as that for Rose-Blanshard.

The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost of low-rental housing schemes and the province and the municipality split the other 25 per cent.

Victoria Eludes Flu Bug

Victoria remains free of the influenza epidemic which has hit Vancouver hard, putting one school child in five into bed.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer here, said Monday that a check of district schools shows average absenteeism.

"Some schools are above and some under but the average is the same as last week," he said.

Meantime in Vancouver, the epidemic seems to be waning in the areas hardest hit.

Mercer

Police Career Ends

By BRIAN DOHERTY

A man who has been in charge of every department of the Victoria police retired Monday.

Harry Mercer, deputy chief since 1950, finished after 27 years of service.

He left his father's grocery business in 1929 to join the force, and he's been there ever since.

He was promoted to sergeant in 1942, and in 1948 he graduated from the RCMP college, Regina.

Deputy Mercer was patrol inspector in 1946 and in charge of detectives in 1947.

Vancouver Diver Improving

David Horodney of Vancouver sits in Colwood recompression chamber after being rushed here from Vancouver for treatment of bends. He was attended in chamber by navy diver Vic

Stobbs, background. Lt.-Cmdr. Ward Palmer said Horodney would be in chamber about 19 hours. — (Bill Boucher)

Vancouver Short-Staffed

Bends Victim Here For Recompression

The first diver treated at the PNE's recompression chamber suffered a relapse of the bends and was flown here Monday for further treatment at the navy's Colwood diving establishment.

David Horodney, 23, of Vancouver, suffered an attack of the bends after deep diving in Howe Sound Sunday. After nine hours in the Vancouver chamber Monday the symptoms disappeared.

But as he drove his car, the painful symptoms returned in his knees, hands and chest. Bends are a buildup of nitrogen bubbles in the blood caused by surfacing too quickly after a deep dive.

CHAMBER ALL RIGHT

Officer commanding the diving establishment Lt.-Cmdr. Ward Palmer, said Horodney had dived to 185 feet for six minutes, surfaced for 20 minutes then returned to 75 feet.

"There is nothing wrong with the PNE's chamber," he said. "But it is run by a group of civilian enthusiasts and their manpower just ran out."

When it became apparent the diver would have to be recompressed again, it was discovered the chamber didn't have the staff for round-the-clock operation, he said.

"He was in rather sad shape when he arrived here," Cmdr. Palmer said. "But once we had recompressed him to about 155 feet he felt like a new man."

He is expected to remain in the chamber 19 hours. He entered about 9:30 p.m. Monday.

Having the chamber occupied for this period ties up the navy diving unit's activities. Only emergency work is carried out while there is no chamber available.

Cmdr. Palmer, who has experienced the bends himself, said the collection of nitrogen bubbles in the joints causes extreme pain.

Talk on China Re-Scheduled

The illustrated lecture on China by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside has been postponed from March 7 to March 15.

The talk and movie will be given at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building at the University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus. Dr. Keenleyside is chairman of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

His talk is sponsored by the Geography Club at the university.

Driver 'In Error'

A coroner's jury Monday found Mrs. Florence E. Stoltz of Milne's Landing exercised "an error in judgment" in failing to slow down for a school bus.

The jury was considering the facts surrounding the death Feb. 14 of Betty Ann Walker, 7, on her way home from school.

OUTSIDE HOME

The accident occurred outside the girl's residence on Happy Valley Road as her brother Jody, 9, looked on.

The children, according to evidence, had just disembarked from the bus, walking to the rear of the vehicle, when Betty Ann made a dash across the road.

Mrs. Stoltz has been charged by Colwood RCMP with dangerous driving.

'Job Good to Me'

Deputy's New Sign: 'Gone Fishing'

A man who has been in charge of every department of the Victoria police retired Monday.

Harry Mercer, deputy chief since 1950, finished after 27 years of service.

He left his father's grocery business in 1929 to join the force, and he's been there ever since.

He was promoted to sergeant in 1942, and in 1948 he graduated from the RCMP college, Regina.

Deputy Mercer was patrol inspector in 1946 and in charge of detectives in 1947.

His career as deputy chief was interrupted by a two-year spell when he returned to the detective branch to do some reorganization.

He was due to retire last year, but was asked to stay on for the extra 12 months. He is succeeded by Inspector Ray Maitland.

Deputy Mercer has seen the department progress from the horse-and-buggy days to a scientific approach in the fight against crime.

One of his biggest investigations was the holdup at McGill and Orme in 1947.

"That was quite an investigation," he recalled.

One of the robbers was shot and two others were captured soon after.

From within his folio of memories he recalled a near aviation disaster in Esquimalt Harbor.

Deputy Mercer, who was a desk sergeant at the time, received reports of a low-flying aircraft one night.

Soon afterward came a call from a seaplane base just out of Seattle.

One of their planes was missing, but had sighted a sign with the letters HPC on it. That was the Hudson's Bay Company sign, the deputy said. The bottom of the B was unlighted.

With use of the new two-way radio and the co-operation of the navy, the seaplane was directed down to a safe landing at Esquimalt.

Harry Mercer will retire from a while in a house at Qualicum. He has a boat that hasn't been in the water for three years, a garden that needs some weeding. Looking back, he says: "I've enjoyed it. The job has certainly been good to me."

Victoria-Born Soldier May Soon 'Come Home'

By BOB PETHICK

A Victoria-born soldier who has been away from home in the British Army since graduating from the Royal Military College, Kingston, may retire and return here.

Lt.-Col. W. D. C. Holmes is in Victoria to visit his parents, Major and Mrs. Cuthbert Holmes, 677 Beach Drive.

One of the main reasons for the move to Canada is the cost of education in England where the family now lives.

FIVE CHILDREN

"We have five children," said Col. Holmes.

Plans at the moment are for retirement from the Royal Engineers in which he has served for 25 years some time within the next two years.

Col. Holmes was in the news about 19 months ago while serving in Aden when a grenade was hurled into a party he was attending. An 18-year-old girl was killed and several people including Col. Holmes were injured by shrapnel.

RUINED SUIT

"It wasn't serious in my case, just some shrapnel in the arm. It ruined my good suit," he said.

Things have slowed up in Aden of late, Col. Holmes believes.

"There was a time when you couldn't sit through dinner without hearing shots or grenades somewhere," he said.

Next year he plans to send his eldest son to University of Victoria.

"We are hoping he may go into the business," he said. "It would make a fifth generation."

The family business here is Pemberton, Holmes Ltd. real estate.

Takes Over As Leader Of Guides

Mrs. H. P. McKeever, 1259 Stancl Lane, assumes today the leadership of the almost 2,000 Guides and Brownies who comprise the Greater Victoria Area Girl Guides.

Guides and commissioners of the area presented Mrs. Emmerton with a watch and a beautiful edition of Sir Winston Churchill's The Island Race in appreciation of her untiring work for the area in the past six years. The presentation was made on Sunday, at a tea at Memorial Hall for adults of the movement, following an inter-denominational church parade at Christ Church Cathedral.

More than 200 parents and friends joined with Brownies, Guides and leaders to fill the Cathedral and to watch the "laying-up" of a Guide Union Jack, the trefall and cords of which have been in use for more than 50 years in Victoria.

It is interesting to note that Mrs. Emmerton's first and last public duty as Victoria area commissioner concerned a flag "laying-up" in the Cathedral, a procedure rather uncommon in Canada.

at SINGER, a dollar

When a company builds a reputation for selling a better product than anyone else, some people naturally think their prices must be higher, too. Later, we discovered there are women who honestly believe you can only buy high-priced sewing machines at Singer Centers. It isn't so. For less than $100, you can own that priceless ingredient, Singer quality, in a growing choice of models. On the subject of price, there is one other point we should make. What you save today on a "special-deal-low-price" machine, you stand to lose tomorrow in frustration and bills.

Unless, of course, you buy at a Singer Center. No matter how little your machine costs you here, it's guaranteed to the hilt... just like our most expensive models (and we're always around the corner with people and parts if ever you should want service). Oh yes. For ten dollars more, during our Spring Sale, you can have our model No. 227 straight stitcher (shown above) in a charming, walnut-finish cabinet. Dear Mother: I have never written you a letter before because in the years when I've wanted advice you were in the next room. I am not writing for advice today, however. I am writing to tell you that you goofed. And in an area I know something about. Sitters.

You told a young mother, whose good friend helped her out of a tough spot by generously offering the name of her prize sitter, that it was O.K. to call that sitter for future sitting dates. You said it wasn't necessary to check first with her benefactor to learn if she needed the sitter herself on that particular night.

Sorry, Mother, but it's the unwritten law of the jungle that a sitter provided by a friend in an emergency is NOT fair game. The woman who booked the emergency sitter for three straight Saturdays dealt her benefactor a low blow. I'm shocked that you condone such tactics.

It's a good thing you no longer need sitters, Mother, because if this is your idea of justice I would not pass on to you the names of MY sitters. — YOUR DAUGHTER MARGO.

Dear Margo: It's bad enough when strangers clobber me, but to be hauled up short by my own daughter! Oh, sharper than a serpent's tooth...

Bishop Optimistic

Encouraging Developments Point To Success of Christian Unity

"Personally, I think there has been more growth in Christian ecumenism in the past four years than there has been in the last four centuries," Rt. Rev. Basil J. de Roo, Bishop of Victoria, said in a speech at the Women's Canadian Club Tuesday afternoon.

Speaking on the development of Christian unity, Bishop de Roo pointed out that there are still major difficulties.

"Deep and lasting differences have arisen over 10 centuries in the three major divisions of Christianity — the Orthodox, the Roman Catholic and the Protestant."

As well as the major problem of understanding between Christians of the eastern and western worlds, there are the many divisions within the Protestant world, each with different traditions of thinking developed independently for centuries.

But there are encouraging signs of a development towards Christian unity.

"We must recognize the leadership and pioneering role of the World Council of Churches, a fellowship of churches representing 214 groups, recognizing a basic belief in the Trinity and the saving role of Christ."

Bishop de Roo also referred to agreement on the principles of union between the Anglican and United Churches as a "bold and energetic step forward."

Another major development of recent years was the second Vatican Council, at which representatives from other Christian churches were as observers.

This was described by Bishop de Roo as a "unique event in Christianity with 30 churches, represented by 70 delegates, at the very Council at which the Roman Catholic Church was discussing internal reform. Observers had access to every single document available."

In fact, he continued, these documents were influenced by the presence of Protestant scholars who commented on the drafts as they appeared.

Bishop de Roo outlined some conditions necessary for the growth of Christian unity:

"Ecumenism will call for work and sacrifice on the part of everyone, not just at the higher levels."

"We must learn to talk to one another and be clear when we speak. Pious platitudes will not serve."

"We must work together to promote Christian understanding, not for conversion of the other party, but for a union of everyone in truth and love."

"There must be a readiness to examine ourselves and a willingness to accept necessary sacrifices and sufferings."

"This ecumenical development is most opportune," he pointed out. "I think the very future of humanity depends on finding an acceptable, valid spiritual orientation."

Boden-Harknett

Mexico Honeymoon

A honeymoon in Mexico City and Acapulco followed the recent marriage of Miss Marsha Harknett and Mr. Douglas Kenneth Boden, who exchanged vows before Rev. S. Parsons in Centennial United Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Harknett, Murray Drive. The groom is the son of Mrs. I. M. Watson, Dallas Road, and the late Mr. F. G. Boden. Mr. Harknett gave his daughter in marriage.

A train of white lace completely bordered by white organza swept back from two tiny bridal bows at the shoulder of the bride's floor-length gown of white organza over tulle. The bateau neckline was enhanced by an overlay of silk applique lace, matching the appliques on the front of the controlled skirt.

Her delicate veil of silk illusion net misted from a wedding ring headpiece of re-embroidered lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white hyacinths and deep pink Biarcliffe roses.

Her attendants were Miss Marilyn Bewley as maid of honor; her sister, Miss Pam Harknett, and cousin, Miss Adela Smith, bridesmaids. They wore floor-length sleeveless gowns of shocking pink peau de soie with controlled skirts. Their headresses were rosettes of meline with small veils en tone, and they carried crescent bouquets of pink carnations with pink meline.

Mr. Bill Smith was best man, and ushers were Mr. Bill Carlow and Mr. Bob Anderson. Mr. Ken Smith proposed the toast to his niece at a reception at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, following the double-ring ceremony.

As the couple left later on their wedding trip the bride wore a camel hair suit with wool hat en tone, brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

Future address for the new Mr. and Mrs. Boden will be 3354 Blacoe Drive, Victoria.

look how you can remodel your kitchen with LIGHT!

No other kitchen improvement can add so much for so little cost. You can give your kitchen a bright new look and make it easier and more pleasant to work in. Start with adequate lighting for those many important "seeing" tasks.

GENERAL LIGHTING. Sufficient overhead lighting helps you see into cupboards and drawers, read labels easily. It imparts a pleasant atmosphere on dull days, and a bright invitation to family and guests in the evening. One way to achieve this effect is with a simple fluorescent fixture.

AT THE SINK. This is an action area: ample light is required to clean vegetables; to see if your dishes are really clean; and if, heaven forbid, that is a green bug on your spinach. Scientists tell us, by the way, that you need 53.6 footcandles to see 'a green bug on spinach' (which you could get from a 150 watt flood lamp). Solution: install a recessed light above the sink, or behind a decorative valance.

AT THE COUNTER. Baking and preparation of meals is so much easier when you have shadow-free lighting. It helps you to read recipes, measure ingredients; make sure that special cake is trimmed to perfection. Hide fluorescent lamps under upper cupboards to light the counter surfaces.

AT THE RANGE. Another important area. It figures: you will cook better if you can see what you are cooking. Is the steak rare or medium? Is that pastry done to the right shade of golden-brown? Install an attractive local light and you'll never have to wonder again.

Start planning your bright new kitchen now. Ease into it if you like, and add one lighting improvement at a time.

Four-Footed 'Policeman' Savage Foe

Dog Perfect for Attack, Search and Guarding

By TONY DILLON-DAVIS

You never quite know what hit you when you're nailed by a police dog.

I have the aches to prove it. When Const. Jim White of Saanich and his 100-pound German shepherd tracking dog Rex get together, you might as well give up.

Rex and Const. White trained together for more than 350 hours before they were a qualified dog-master team, the first ever to be produced by Vancouver City Police's dog-and-master training school.

'Very Gentle'

"Rex is a very gentle dog," he said. That, I couldn't believe until I saw Rex playing with a group of small children.

"He is excellent with them. I have many kids around here whom I use for tracking practice. I tell them to hide in the woods, and send Rex after them. The kids love it, playing hide and seek with a police dog."

But the three-year-old dog becomes the classic image of the police dog with a word from his master.

Const. White, city police dog-master George Barr, Rex, and myself went out to a rough gravel road in Saanich to put Rex through his paces, with me as the victim.

Const. White told me that Rex would attack only if:

- Ordered to attack;
- A gun is used;
- Rex is himself attacked;
- Some fool attacks Const. White.

Our idea was to try the last one first.

"Grab me by the sleeve and shake me, I will drop to one knee," he said. Rex was in the car. Const. White and myself stood at the front of the car.

I grabbed him, he fell. Out of the corner of my eye I spotted Rex leap through the car window and charge.

Knocked Down

The next thing I saw was the gravel, on which I landed heavily. Rex had me by the sleeve and dragged me away from Const. White, growling and trying to pull my arm out of its socket.

Const. White called Rex, and the dog let go, reluctantly, I thought. A few more words from Const. White, and Rex was licking my hand. We were friends again.

Next was the fun part. Const. White and I got into separate cars. I roared away and Const. White chased me.

'I Ran'

I braked, leaped out of the car, and ran.

"Stop! Police! or I'll release the dog," Const. White shouted.

He is required to warn suspects when he intends to loose the dog on them.

I wasn't stopping for anyone. As I ran I glanced back, once. I saw this dog—all fangs—heading for me like a fast freight. I beat the four-minute mile. It wasn't good enough.

Air-Borne

I don't remember Rex grabbing me. All I know is, one moment I was running, the next, I was air-borne.

Rex was chewing at my sleeve again. He wouldn't let me get up, always yanked me off balance. I wanted to yell for help but I had to swallow my heart first. It was stuck in my throat.

Anyone who says you can fight a police dog hasn't tried it. Rex jerked me around so much I didn't have a chance to even aim a blow.

"Try to get up," Const. White told me. It was easy. Rex hardly pulled at all. He let me get to my feet, in a crouched position, then I was airborne again, and again, plowing up the fields of Saanich.

'Great Fun'

Rex seemed to think this was great fun.

A few more words from Const. White, and Rex and I were buddies again. I wondered for how long this time.

Const. White sent me to hide up a tree, then sent Rex to find me. He found me, and wouldn't let me out of the tree until Const. White called him away. Next I was a break-and-entry artist. Const. Barr had me in a warehouse.

A few minutes later Rex and Const. White showed up at the door.

Const. White shouted that he was from the police, that he was about to search the place with a police dog, and anyone inside should come out.

He did this three times, his words punctuated by Rex's barking.

"We have to give people who are lawfully in the place a chance to get out," he told me later.

He set Rex loose. It was pitch dark, and all I could hear was the click of Rex's claws, and his deep panting.

Dog Guards

Both sounded pretty loud, and within a few minutes of entering, Rex found me, and barked. Const. White came, and searched me as Rex stood guard.

"The use of a police dog in a situation like this is often enough to make the burglar surrender. Whereas it could take 10 officers to search the place, one dog can find the man in minutes. It also reduces the risk to police, especially if the burglar has a gun."

Les Grands Ballets

24 Butte Colonnade, Victoria, Tuesday, March 1, 1966

'A Fine Company'

By ERITH M. SMITH

The search for budding talent in ballet, with this dance form greatly increasing in world popularity, is never-ending.

Anton Dolin, a dancer himself since the age of eight and for 40 years one of the world's greatest performers, choreographers and directors, is one who constantly seeks out and encourages promising young dancers—girls and boys.

"The idea that a male dancer is a sissy is quite wrong," he says. "No one considers an athlete or an acrobat a sissy. Male dancers must be athletes, and like good athletes they must start their training early and keep it up."

AN 'ADVISOR'

Mr. Dolin is in Victoria with Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, performing tonight at the Royal. He is billed as the company's artistic director, but prefers to call himself artistic adviser.

"It's a fine company," he says of the Montreal group. "It's growth, to this status from a small group formed mainly for television productions is due entirely to the dedication and work of its founder, Ludmilla Cherepova."

He should be able to judge, with balletic eye.

He became a member of Serge Diaghilev's Ballet Russe in 1924, rapidly advanced to lead roles and, before he was 20, had The Blue Train ballet choreographed especially for him around his ability as an acrobat.

Born Patrick Healey-Kay in Slindford, Sussex, he came to Diaghilev's attention while a student with Serafima Asafieva, graduate of the Russian Imperial Ballet, in London.

Earlier, he had studied at London's famous Conti Theatrical School, where Noel Coward, Gertrude Lawrence and Jack Hawkins were also students.

Boys' roles in plays and such pantomimes as Peter Pan ended when his voice changed, and he concentrated on dancing. His work with the Ballet Russe was just the beginning. Later he had his own companies — the Nemchinova-Dolin and Markova-Dolin companies, the Camargo Society, Vio-Wells Ballet.

He was instrumental in founding the Festival Ballet which toured this continent and Europe about 10 years ago, and appeared with the Ballet Festival in New York.

WON FAME

Besides Nemchinova and Markova (like himself English, real name Alicia Marks), he has partnered all the great ballerinas of the past three decades and won himself a permanent spot in any "who's who of ballet."

Anton Dolin, or Pat Kay, was the middle of three sons.

Philip, the oldest, was killed in Egypt just before the end of the First World War. Anthony, the youngest, lives in Brighton, and has three sons and a daughter.

'ESCAPED' BONDS

Dolin himself "has escaped matrimony."

"Probably a good thing," he adds. "The woman I might have married 30 years ago I might not be able to stand today."

"As it is, I have good friends all over the world—and that is a wonderful thing."

Protest Didn't Stop Door Closing On Beatles' 'Home'

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI) — About 100 teen-agers Monday barricaded themselves into Liverpool's Cavern Club, birthplace of the Beatles and British beat, when officials went to close the place because the owner is in debt.

Finally, police got in through a back door after failing to clear the furniture blocking the narrow stone stairs at the front entrance to the cellar.

An era ended when teen-agers streamed out in response to an appeal to leave quietly. Many of them had been in the club since Sunday afternoon.

They danced up to the last minute to beat groups pounding out the Liverpool sound from the little stage that gave the Beatles and others their start on the road to fame.

After Slumbering Through Haydn

Symphony Saved By Billy the Kid

By GORDON DODD

Thank heaven for Aaron Copland and Billy the Kid.

It seemed only the bravado of this two-piece orchestra of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra's Sunday afternoon offering at the Royal Theatre from the slumber to which it had descended with Haydn.

The latter master's Symphony No. 104 in D Major (London) may have all the stately grace of the English capital of old to which it appears to be dedicated, but it was a poor contrast to the Sibelius that had gone before. Moreover, the orchestra seemed disinterested in its task of promulgating what is scarcely more than chamber music, and the work's beauty was dimmed on this performance.

WORTH WAITING

But for those who accept that there is some good in modern composition and its often blasphemous experimentation, it was well worth the wait to hear Billy the Kid ride along.

Mr. Copland has a beautifully descriptive pen as those who accept that there is some good in modern musical composition and its often blasphemous experimentation, it was well worth the wait to hear Billy the Kid ride along.

Really one only needs to be a movie fan to appreciate it. Mr. Copland's scores have put their mark on a handful of films.

A personal beef is that those who write film scores tend to be most under-rated in the symphony hall. A suggestion is that they should form some sort of organization to have what is some of the best music being written today "plugged" on concert platforms.

It pointed up another creative source he has found—the folk theme, here adapted to a ballet, Billy the Kid. The suite is aglow with musical pictures, the chill of an open prairie, the fury of gun battles, the brief glances of a Mexican dance and the climactic moment when a posse closes in on the Kid.

Conductor Otto-Werner Mueller guided the orchestra through a tricky but exhilarating exercise in a way that was most, most satisfying.

It would be wrong, however, if in making a point for brighter symphony concerts, one was to overlook the appearance of 22-

Began In Paris

Old Art Tradition Flourishes In Quebec Village

By BENOIT HOULE

ST. JEAN PORT JOLI, Que. (CP)—This tiny community on the banks of the St. Lawrence River near where it begins to widen toward the sea is a recently-founded Quebec centre of art and handicrafts which has its roots in 17th century Paris.

The nucleus of this arts centre can be traced back through a family tree to three Parisian master sculptors, Pierre, Francois and Alphonse Lagros, who came to Canada in the 17th century.

Their descendants settled in St. Jean Port Joli, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence 50 miles northeast of Quebec. Three of those descendants, Jean-Julien Bourgault, felt the call of the nearby sea and became sailors, only to have the depression of the 1930s force them back to this community.

WOOD SCULPTOR

Medard became a carpenter and turned to sculpting wood. He was soon joined by his two brothers in this activity and from their workshop sprang the movement of Quebec province wood carving whose reputation has spread throughout the province and beyond.

The artists and artisans of St. Jean, working with mallet and chisel on the shapely blocks of wood, fashion statues of work-worn farmers, straining oxen, massive moose, fleeing deer, the Christ Child and Christ's suffering figure on the cross.

GIVE TWO-YEAR COURSE

The artist's tradition here is only 35 years old, but St. Jean has 300 years of tradition and little to quibble with bowman-ship—it was like spring waiting to burst forth.

To most of those present, however, it seemed it would not be too long before Mr. Armin flourishes in the Canadian concert world.

Stravinsky's overture to the Barbered Bride opened the program, which was repeated at the Royal Monday night.

religious belief behind it from which the sculptors and other artists can draw their inspiration.

In 1939, the Bourgault brothers began to teach sculpture. The province of Quebec acknowledged their value by authorizing them to open a provincial school in 1960, the year Andre Bourgault was struck and killed by a truck outside his workshop.

TOURIST ATTRACTION

The artists' booths, stretched along the side of the road leading to the Gaspé Peninsula, are a large tourist attraction for this community.

But it's not only the tourist who has recognized the quality of the work of these artists. The fruit of their labor has also received some official recognition.

HONORED BY FRANCE

In 1963, France granted them the French National Medal of Merit for having best preserved and spread the traditions which came from France three centuries ago. The medal and an accompanying parchment now hang in the Bourgaults' school.

With some bitterness the artists of the school and this community say they have never been recognized or aided by the government at Ottawa, despite repeated requests.

RIG DEMAND

There is a great demand for their work. Some orders are delayed for several years before they can be filled.

The work goes on 12 months a year in order to fill the demand. The artists produce new works and even hundreds of reproductions of a multitude of different objects. Their work enables them to earn between $3,000 and $5,000 annually.

PROMINENT BUYERS

Jean-Julien Bourgault has sculpted works for Queen Elizabeth, Vincent Auriol, a former French president, Lord Beaverbrook, Camille Houde, former mayor of Montreal, and Prince Charles of Wales.

His work is found in private and public collections throughout Canada, the United States and Europe and some of his carvings have travelled as far as Africa.

Visitor For Day

Defence Minister Hellyer will visit Victoria March 12. During his visit, he will call at Royal Canadian Navy at Esquimalt and Canadian Services College, Royal Roads. He is expected to have informal chats with representative groups of armed forces. Mr. Hellyer will be accompanied by his executive assistant, William L. Lee.

Cyprus Patrol Extended

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian peacekeeping mandate in Cyprus has been extended, Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons Monday.

He was replying to H. Russell MacEwan (PC — Pictou), who asked whether Canadian troops would remain in Cyprus under the auspices of the United Nations.

The UN mandate was renewed for three months Dec. 26. That means it would have expired again March 26, except for the extension disclosed by Mr. Hellyer.

Mr. Hellyer did not say how long the extension would be. The Canadian force was sent to the Mediterranean island to help keep the peace between Greek and Turkish-Cypriots.

Yukon Time Differs

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — The Yukon Territory has been divided into two time zones differing by an hour.

The division into two zones took effect at midnight Yukon Standard Time Saturday. Communities in the northern part of the territory remained on Yukon Standard Time, while those in the south went on Yukon Daylight Time the year round.

The division was made on the basis of a plebiscite held in the territory to determine how people wanted time zones set up.

AREAS DIVIDED
Northern areas, including Dawson City and Beaver Creek, supported standard time. Those in the south, including Whitehorse, Carcross and Watson Lake supported daylight time.

The area east of the 136th meridian and south of the 62nd parallel is on daylight time and the remainder of the Yukon on standard time.

Therefore, when it is noon in Whitehorse, it will be 11 a.m. in Dawson City in the north. In Vancouver it will be noon Pacific Standard Time. In Edmonton it will be 1 p.m. Mountain Standard Time. Alaska has a number of time zones.

Park Home Declined For Namu

SEATTLE (AP) — Controversy over plans for the killer whale Namu to be one of the Seattle Centre attractions during the summer was settled Monday, at least temporarily. He won't be there.

Ted Griffin, director of the Seattle Public Aquarium and Namu's owner, notified the city council he has withdrawn his petition to lease a two-acre site in the northwest corner of the Centre for a marine park.

Mr. Griffin said his architect told him the park could not be ready by early summer, as planned, "and I do not desire to have the building site torn up during the height of the summer tourist season."

He said, however, he would make another request for the site later.

The plan to put the four-ton whale on display at the Centre had been criticized by a number of organizations, particularly youth groups who urged that the area be set aside for teen-age activities.

Garden Notes

Omission Rectified

By M. V. CHESNUT

I started off in a recent column to recommend a few flowering and evergreen shrubs for planting in a labor-saving shrub border — this is in response to a request for advice from a pair of elderly and not-too-robust gardening enthusiasts.

However, I got myself so bogged down in explaining just how shrubs should be planted, I didn't cover very much ground in naming suitable kinds.

The Spiraea makes up a big family of shrubs and there is a wide choice here. For blossoms in the spring of the year, I think my choice would go to Spiraea arguta, with six-foot arching branches wreathed in tiny rounded white flower clusters. S. thunbergii is one of the earliest, blooming in March or early April, but it seems a bit on the tender side — a lot of them perished in the freeze of 1963.

You see a lot of the pink-flowered Spiraea Anthony Waterer around — it is as hardy as a Scotch pine — but I don't think I could include this one in a list of labor-saving shrubs.

Anthony Waterer needs to be disciplined with a firm hand or it becomes a veritable witch's brew of twigsy growth and all its pruning cuts seriously into golf, fishing and loafing time.

The Brooms are an absolute must in any well-furnished shrub border. The lemon-yellow Cytisus praecox is the first to bloom, often as early as February, followed in April by C. alba with white blossoms.

For color in May we have the glowing hybrids such as the Donard seedlings in white, pink, gold and crimson, and the scarlet and gold C. criterion.

The Spanish Broom, Spartium juncum, is at its best in July and early August but continues to produce the odd spray of golden pea flowers throughout the late summer months.

The shrubby Potentilla, nicknamed Choppedoff because of its five-fingered leaves, makes lusty shrubs with a very long season of bloom. P. fruticosa makes a specimen around five feet tall bearing a profusion of bright yellow blossoms for all the world like yellow wild roses.

It blooms from June until mid-August — an outstanding performance when you compare it with such shrubs as the lilac or the forsythia.

P. fruticosa tends to sprawl a bit and if you intend to treat your shrub border with ostentatious neglect, you'd better leave a good five feet of clearance between fruticosa and its nearest neighbor.

This shrub has a taller brother, Potentilla fruticosa Friedrichsiana, which has a slimmer figure and a more upright habit of growth. It has a little brother too, P. Farreri, a dwarf of two feet or less, whose native habitat is the mountains of North China.

I have made passing mention from time to time of an excellent shrub called Weigela; this one also can be counted upon to do its stuff with a minimum of attention.

I must get in a plug, too, for Kerria japonica floro-plena, a grand shrub with double yellow flowers displayed over a long period of time on an upright-growing five-foot bush.

The stems are a singularly bright green shade, eye-catching even in the depth of winter. One of the mysteries surrounding Kerria is how it ever acquired its common nickname, Jew's Mallow.

No shrub border could be considered complete without a Hydrangea, but if you live in a frost pocket or any great distance from tidewater, the ordinary H. macrophylla is not for you, for the flower buds will winter-kill unless a lot of work is expended rigging up some kind of frost protection.

Fortunately, there are harder Hydrangeas, and the PeeGee and Snow-bill varieties are as winter-hardy as a muskrat, surviving as far north as Pinckney George and bearing their ivory panicles of blossoms late in summer.

ART BUCHWALD Stages Photo Contest

What Were They Saying?

WASHINGTON — The best photograph to come out of last week's news showed President Johnson in a group of things the newspapermen thought Johnson could have said as he hugged Humphrey.

"I know this sounds silly, but I invited a Pakistan camel driver to visit me when I got back to the United States."

"I think I picked up a bug in India."

"Tell Lady Bird I brought back the Thai silk she wanted."

"Don't let on to the customs people but Muriel is over her $100 tourist allowance."

"Is there anything I should know about our foreign policy since yesterday?"

"I was pleased in Australia, New Zealand, and the Philippines. Do you think I've got enough to write a book?"

These were the entries as to what the vice-president said to President Johnson. Now here are some of the things the newspapermen thought Johnson could have said as he hugged Humphrey.

"Wipe that grin off your face or everyone will think you had a good time."

"I've got bad news for you, Hubert. Bobby and I have made up."

"I was wondering when you were going to bring my plane back."

"If anyone questions you, we agree with George Kennan and Gen. Gavin."

"Sen. Fulbright has been asking for you."

"You left your lights on in the office."

"What were they saying about me in Korea?"

Don't squeeze so hard; you're hurting my ear."

"What did you buy for Dean Rusk?"

"You didn't run across a good chat in the Far East did you?"

"I cut your budget."

"Don't look now but Sen. Morse is watching us on television."

"Now I hope you're satisfied with this trip and I don't want to hear another word out of you for six months."

These were only a few of the entries that have been submitted.

They are still pouring in. The winner of the contest gets to spend a week in Saigon, explaining to General Ky what Gen. Maxwell Taylor really meant when he said he supported Bobby Kennedy.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Connery To Direct

NEW YORK (NANA)—Sean Connery called on Robert Ryan to ask him to co-star with Shelley Winters in the play, Secret of the World, which he will direct this coming November on Broadway. Robert's 14-year-old daughter Lisa was terribly excited, just standing there, staring. Robert will take the script with him when he leaves in April for London to star with Lee Marvin and possibly Jack Palance in The Dirty Dozen. The trio has just completed The Professionals with Burt Lancaster and Claudia Cardinale.

As for Connery, after leaving the manuscript of the play with Robert, he took off for Nevada where his wife Diane Cilento is starring with Paul Newman in Hombre. To show what can happen in life, Connery was telling Ryan that about four years ago he tried out for a bit part in Billy Budd, in which Robert played the villain with Terence Stamp as Billy. He didn't get the part. But I'll tell you who did. A young man we know today as Ilya Kuryakyn—David McCallum. One man's UNCLE is another man's 007.

Jack Warner did again. Mike Nichols was taking longer than Jack liked with the editing of Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf. Now I hear that Mike has packed up and is working on his next film. Warner did the same with Blake Edwards at the end of The Great Race. Darryl Zanuck dittoed, if you remember, with Joe Mankiewicz at the end of Cleopatra. Then later asked him back to shoot another battle that Joe had wanted in the film in the first place. The houses are inclined to be impatient. Once the picture is finished they want to rush through the important bits and places. Anyway, the word from Warner is that Nichols has done a good job with his first film.

Ever since Lisa Minsell had her father and stepmother at that recent New York night club opening, people have been asking me why her mother, Judy Garland, was not there to fling her quota of praise with Vincent and Denise. It's quite simple. Judy gets so emotional when she hears Lisa stating that it makes her daughter nervous. When Lisa opened at the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles, Judy wept and kept saying, "My darling, my darling." They agreed mutually that the next important time, Judy would come in to see and beam over her chick, several days after the premiere. And that's what she did in New York. Slipping in quietly, weeping quietly. And leaving quietly.

Joan Fontaine may not have time to divorce Alfred Wright before she comes back from London later in the year after making two horror pictures for Hammer Productions. She is now touring in Dial M for Murder. The estrangement between Joan and her husband was not surprising. They are so completely different in their tastes and habits, the only surprise was that they married in the first place. It was probably a reaction from her long friendship with Charles Addams. Joan was always saying she did not want to get married. I always thought she did. Every woman does.

Marlon Brando will have to stop being funny in The Countess from Hong Kong in London to do some closeups for his recent western, Southeast of Sonora. As Marlon can't come to Hollywood, they are taking the cameramen and crew to London.

Tina Turner and her husband, Christian, have rented a home at Malibu Beach while Tina stars with Dean Martin and Alan Dean in Texas Across the River. The dark-eyed daughter of the late Maria Montez is expecting her best friend from Paris, and I do mean Jane Fonda.

SYDNEY HARRIS States a Truism

Conformity in Reverse

One of my favorite quotations, which I have adverted to many times over the years, is Lichtenberg's sharp observation: To do exactly the opposite is also a form of imitation.

I thought of this again recently, when someone mentioned a couple who had moved out at dawn. These people were the prime examples of "the tyranny of the opposite."

They despised everything banal and bourgeois. They would rather be caught dead than conforming to any of our tribal rites. And their whole life was carefully arranged to avoid and counteract the slightest symptom of ordinariness.

Their food, the way they treated their children, their reading matter, their diversions, were all planned not so much for their intrinsic merit or pleasure but for demonstrating to themselves and others that they were singular folk pursuing an independent path, contemptuous of the middle-class values and habits most of us accede to.

What was amusing, and rather pathetic, about their attitude was their failure to see that their way of life was a kind of conformity in reverse. The moment something esoteric became popular, they were forced to drop it, regardless of their earlier affection for it.

The average person is, indeed, tyrannized by the often meretricious values of his social system; he reads what everyone reads, dresses as everyone dresses, thinks in the same stereotypes, supinely accepts the amusements that are offered him by the mass-media, and is afraid to deviate from the prescribed formula for reaching the ladder toward affluence and success.

Yet, the supposedly "free souls" of whom I speak are just as tyrannized by their own conformity to non-conformism. The average man thinks that the whatever is popular is good; the non-conformist thinks that whatever is popular is bad, agree or disagree; the chain of conformity is severed. There is little to choose between these two blind attitudes of one end, binds the revolutionary acceptance or rejection; they are at the other.

I once knew a man who diligently read every day a newspaper he hated. When I asked him why he continued to read it, he said, "It saves me trouble — I simply learn what the paper is for, and I'm automatically against it."

This is an easy way to save the trouble of thinking; but what this man didn't recognize was that he was as much a slave as all the readers who automatically agreed with the paper. When we let somebody else decide what our reaction shall be, we are no longer free persons, whether we decide to agree or disagree; the chain that binds the traditionalist at one end, binds the revolutionary at the other.

ID Cards Could Reduce Irregularities in Elections

British Columbians should carry identification cards to reduce irregularities in provincial elections, New Democratic MLA William Hartley said Monday.

The suggested revision of the Provincial Election Act is one of several he said he will make in a resolution during the forthcoming legislature debate on re-distribution of provincial seats.

Mr. Hartley spoke Monday at the University of Victoria before the campus NDP club.

AMENDMENTS SOUGHT

"There should be several amendments to the Elections Act," said Mr. Hartley, whose 1963 election was fought through the courts because of alleged irregularities.

Mr. Hartley first lost the 1963 election by 14 votes, then won it by six votes after a judicial recount. The recount was upheld in a subsequent appeal, but another court action last December invalidated the election.

It was not until February that the Appeal Court finally declared Mr. Hartley's election valid.

"We should all have an ID (identification) card with a picture, or possibly a fingerprint," said the 49-year-old insurance agent.

He suggested that the card might be punched at the polling booth to eliminate multiple voting.

Spy Case Flares

Should Peasants Keep Quiet?

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Cardin disclosed Monday in the Commons the alleged espionage offences by George Victor Spencer of Vancouver began "well before 1960."

Ghana Near Famine

From Reuters-AP

ACCRA (CP) — Lt. Gen. Joseph Ankrah, Ghana's new military ruler, said Monday night his country is close to famine and starvation and he appealed to friendly countries to help restore its economy.

In his first nationwide address since seizing power in a coup four days ago, Ankrah warned that the country is on the brink of economic ruin.

Nkrumah arrived Monday in Moscow and conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. There was no indication how long he would stay there.

"KEEP OUT" — Ankrah also warned "all nations to keep out of our problems and leave us alone to do our best to solve them."

Earlier at a press conference he said if Nkrumah returns to Ghana he will face trial.

Ankrah made these other points:

- Ghana will cease to interfere in the internal affairs of other states and no longer will harbor and train political refugees for subverting other African countries.
- Ghana will retain membership in the Commonwealth. She will not break relations with Russia and China.
- Ghana is willing to re-establish diplomatic relations with Britain, broken off by Nkrumah.

MISSIONS — One of the first acts of his new regime, he said, will be to send missions to the French-speaking states of Togo, the Ivory Coast, Upper Volta and Niger to re-establish good relations.

The press conference apparently was called to dispute the statement of a Ghanaian in exile that the coup was masterminded in London. Ankrah said Dwa Daniel Amihya, who told reporters in London he masterminded the coup, is "a charlatan."

Amihya, who returned to Accra from London Sunday, was made to stand on a chair while guards covered him with guns.

WANTED CRIMINAL — Sweating freely under arc lights, Amihya attempted to explain his sympathy for the new regime.

Ankrah angrily told the press conference: "None of us know him. He is a criminal wanted in Ghana. We will put him in a cold ice chest."

Asked when the coup was planned, Ankrah said: "In Kumasi, about three weeks ago." He said no foreign country helped.

Free Trade By July 1967? — BRUSSELS (AP) — Europe's Common Market countries agreed Monday to try to end all restrictions on the free movement of goods among them by July 1, 1967.

Money Crisis Brews

-- Ottawa Is Penniless

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The government, technically, is broke today.

When the clock on the Peace Tower struck midnight last night, the last day of February, the government was left without any spending authority from Parliament.

It has no authority for spending in March, for paying civil servants, the armed forces and other expenses of government.

A government in such a fix clearly faces a crisis, which it can solve by:

- Diverting carryover money from previous authorizations.

'Tit For Tat'

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Premier Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa said Monday night if Britain, a great friend of the United States, can continue to trade with Cuba and North Vietnam, it is much more natural for South Africa to maintain normal relations with its immediate neighbor, Rhodesia.

Verwoerd, opening the campaign of the ruling Nationalist party for the March 30 general election, said he wishes to make it clear Britain has made no threats to South Africa despite its attitude towards Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

Diplomatic exchanges between the two countries have led to wrong deductions by others, he said. They had taken place in a decent manner, which could be expected from civilized nations that wanted to retain the friendship of others.

CONCERN EXPRESSED — Britain has expressed concern about certain developments and South Africa has expressed concern to Britain about certain events on its own soil, Verwoerd said.

He was apparently referring to British objections to oil supplies being sent to Rhodesia from private individuals and organizations in South Africa. South Africa is believed to have in turn complained about British agents going to the border post of Beit Bridge to check on oil supplies being sent to Rhodesia.

IGNORES BOYCOTT — Verwoerd said South Africa has expressed its determination to adhere to its policy of non-interference and to refuse to take part in any boycott against Rhodesia, whose white-minority government broke away from Britain Nov. 11.

He said it is true Rhodesia is benefitting from South Africa's refusal, to participate in any boycotts, but nobody and no nation that is reasonable could expect anything else from a good neighbor not concerned in the particular conflict.

HIDING NOTHING — "This is a bona fide security case," Mr. Cardin said. It was demagoguery to ask questions about it knowing the answers could not be given in public.

The opposition was acting as though it had never heard of security procedures and was insinuating the government had something to hide.

"We are not trying to hide anything," Mr. Cardin said.

Normal security procedures had been used in the case. There was only one unprecedented fact, which the opposition wanted to overlook: "Spencer branded himself as a spy of his own free will."

NAME USED — Mr. Cardin said he used Spencer's name on a national television broadcast three weeks after Spencer had identified himself as the postal clerk involved in an espionage case.

A judicial inquiry should not replace the basic trust and confidence between the government and the people.

Israeli, Old Plane, Won't See Nasser

F-5 Tested Over North

SAIGON (LAT)—Northrop's F-5 Freedom Fighter jets—the U.S. "discards" purchased for Canadian use—had their big chance to prove themselves Monday in strike missions over North Vietnam.

The small, inexpensive fighter planes had been sent to Viet Nam for testing under combat conditions, compared with the bigger, more sophisticated Thunderchiefs and Panthers.

Results of Monday's sorties will provide Canada with some of the answers she is looking for in connection with this proposed addition to her fighting forces.

Peace Flight Misses

PORT SAID (AP) — An Israeli former fighter pilot flew to the United Arab Republic Monday but failed in an attempt to see President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He will be given fuel to fly home today.

Abraham Nathan, 38, made a forced landing at Gamal Airport in Port Said when his tiny, 40-year-old monoplane ran out of fuel. He had radioed ahead that he was on a peace mission and requested permission to land. He said he wanted to see Nasser.

ENOUGH FUEL — Hassan Roshdy, security chief in Port Said, said Nathan would be allowed to spend the night in Port Said and be given enough fuel to fly out this morning.

There were reports that Nathan told Port Said authorities he brought with him petitions bearing thousands of Israeli signatures calling for peace between the United Arab Republic and Israel. The U.A.R. considers itself still at war with Israel.

Cancer Patient Finds 'Twin' Tumor Transplant All Set

BUFFALO (AP) — Doctors at Roswell Park memorial institute said Monday they have located a cancer victim who has agreed to participate in a rare cancer transplant with a Tucson, Ariz., businessman.

***

The unidentified 65-year-old man from Philadelphia, and Robert F. Allen, 28, of Tucson, will come to Buffalo for the operation, perhaps this week, a spokesman said.

Allen, father of three, has osteogenic sarcoma, a rare type of bone cancer, and has been given two to six months to live by his doctors.

His life could be saved, the 9 doctors said, if a person could be found with the same type of cancer and the matching blood-type, O-positive.

The treatment, which in-

***

Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler, associate chief cancer research surgeon at Roswell Park, New York state's cancer research and treatment centre, said he decided on the Philadelphia man Monday afternoon.

as a comment on Labor support for the American role in Viet Nam.

There are other matters, such as Britain's decision, much welcomed here, to stick militarily east of Suez although Conservative spokesmen such as Enoch Powell have advocated pulling out.

There is the decision to let the Royal Navy wither and to buy expensive American fighter-bombers instead.

Britain's role, therefore, is held to be ally No. 1 at a time when the U.S. hard-pressed to rally acceptance of its policy in Viet Nam let alone much material support, feels itself extended globally in its defence commitments.

***

Prime Minister Wilson also has come across to Americans as a hard-nosed, adroit politician.

Rent-Purchase Plan

Home Gift To Reach $300 Peak

Premier Bennett said Monday the government is "studying" a rent-purchase plan for persons unable to raise a down payment to purchase their own houses, and that the homeowner grant would be increased to $150, to $200 and to $300.

The remarks came while the legislature was considering second reading of a bill to increase the homeowners grant by $10 to $110.

The bill passed second reading by unanimous consent of the House.

OTHERS ADVANCE — Three other bills also passed second reading but resulted in a concerted opposition attack on the government and at one point a "yes" reply from the premier that he was electorally.

The other bills were to pay off the B.C. Ferry Authority debt, to increase by $4 the provincial per-capita grant to municipalities, and increased subsidies for the provincial medical care scheme.

Bennett, after several opposition MLAs called for some aid to renters, told the House:

"I'm making no promises. I am only reporting to the House (the rent-purchase plan) is being studied."

He said under such a scheme more people would be eligible to receive the homeowner grant.

NOT ENOUGH — Opposition leader Strachan agreed the grant helps but it is not enough to meet rising assessment rates in many areas.

Liberal leader Ray Parrauli and Alex Macdonald (NDP, Vancouver East) said giving the grant only to homeowners "discriminates" against the growing population of renters.

Alan Macfarlane (L. Oak Bay) said the government's refusal to extend the grant to renters could only be construed to mean that the government was "not prepared to help the little man who rents."

POLICY FLEXIBLE — While discussing the raise of $4 in provincial per capita grants, he denied a statement by Mr. Strachan that the government had earmarked sales tax money for municipalities.

Government policy, he said, is flexible with regard to financial aid to municipalities.

"We live in a changing world," the premier said.

"You must have dynamic policies for a dynamic society."

"Municipalities and the people of this province can always expect more every year."

CAMPAIN SPEECH — Mr. Perrault interjected: "Is that a campaign speech?"

"Yes," the premier shot back. Mr. Perrault termed the grant principle "penny ante" and "penny-pinching."

He charged that the government has "a collective guilt complex in its treatment of municipalities."

Dr. Pat McGeer (L. Vancouver-Point Grey) said there would be no solution without a "complete new approach to (municipal) financing."

"Fixed grants, like per capita grants, are a dead end."

Russians To Land On Moon

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—James Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, said Monday the Soviet Union may attempt to land men on the moon this year.

He told the Senate's aeronautical and space committee: "All signs indicate we will see more and larger Soviet operations in space this year."

Webb also said budget cuts have destroyed his agency's hopes of sending an American to the moon in 1967 or 1968.

But, barring some major setbacks, it was reasonable to expect a U.S. lunar landing by late 1969.

Protester Finds Jail She Likes

OLYMPIA (AP) — Comedian Dick Gregory's wife Monday ended a two-week stay in Thurston County's jail which she called "the nicest one I've been in."

She and her husband were jailed Feb. 15 for illegal use of set nets for fishing during a protest fish-in by Indians on the Nisqually River east of Olympia.

Gregory was scheduled to arrive at the Seattle-Tacoma airport Monday to continue support of Indians in their fishing rights squabble with the state.

The nightclub comic was bailed out of jail here Feb. 17, but his wife stayed. Monday she said, "I've stayed in jail long enough to protest."

LBJ Discreetly Cheers for Wilson

By ARCH MACKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill, sometimes described as a 19th-century Tory, urged Britain never to turn its back on the alliance with the United States.

His most ardent disciple today in that view is Harold Wilson, Socialist prime minister.

***

If that seems paradoxical, so does the general assumption here President Johnson's heart rides firmly—if discreetly—with

Wilson in the March 31 election called Monday in a bid to strengthen the delicate Labor majority. (See Page 20)

***

Another general assumption is campaign issues are likely to deal more than usual with American policy in Viet Nam and elsewhere and British adherence to it.

The British election seems certain to be followed accordingly with much more interest than is usual and the result viewed—rightly or wrongly

Musical Group Organized

PARKSVILLE — District 6 Musical Association was launched at a well attended meeting held recently at Parksville Community hall.

Future band members gathered from all over the district. Regular practices will commence as soon as arrangements can be made for a meeting place and enough instruments are available.

CONCERT BAND
Jack Schotfield of Qualicum Beach was meeting chairman and Jack Barrigan of Parksville will be band conductor. Mr. Barrigan suggested to the meeting that a concert band should be the main objective at present.

It is hoped later to branch out into other fields such as the formation of a pipe band and choral groups under the supervision of the association.

ALBERTA BANDS
Mr. Barrigan is a retired bandmaster with considerable experience as a teacher of school bands in Alberta and other points.

The name chosen for the group is an interim one until it is fully organized. The Association is open to new members of any age and several joined following the meeting. W. H. Bone of Parksville is secretary.

Bear Nose Bared

NITNAT — Faller Tom Krumpic is still scratching his head about how he gave a bear a sore face.

Working on a cedar tree with chain saw at Nitinat logging camp Thursday, he began to notice he wasn't making very much impression on the bark. He sawed a little bit more — and the chain fell off its bar.

It was as he replaced the chain that he got his shock. A large bear walked out of the hollow of the tree sporting a cut nose. Mr. Krumpic did not wait to see which direction the bear went.

The following day he and fellow logger Art Neiser returned to the scene.

There was no sign of mother bear. But inside the tree hollow were two cubs, obviously just born.

The cubs were dead.

Nanaimo Little Theatre Pulls Props from Play

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Theatre Group has dropped out of the provincial drama festival.

After several months of rehearsal the play Beekman Place will not be performed.

Arnold Olsen, the play's director, said, Saturday "the play would not sell properly."

"It's been delayed twice with no marked improvement, and rather than put on a play we're not proud of, we decided to chalk it up to experience."

"In my opinion there have been plays put on in the area that should not have been put on, and the ticket-buyer has been bilked!"

The play, a comedy, was cast last November and scheduled for public performance in January. This date was then extended to March.

Fishermen Mark Ocean Star Sinking

Almost 300 persons, many who own fishing boats, jammed a Lutheran church Sunday to pay tribute to the crew of the Ocean Star.

It was the third memorial service in two years at Dunbar Lutheran Church, which has a largely Scandinavian parish, for fishermen who have drowned off the coast.

Cougars Bring Finesse and Fans to Canadian Basketball Finals

Play-making guard Skip Cronk of Calgary's Mount Royal College Cougars bats away pass intended for Hamilton's Jim Hajus in first game of Canadian junior men's basketball tournament. Cougars won, 81-63, and play UBC Jayvees in second round tonight at Central Junior High School.

By JIM TAYLOR
Victoria Chinooks rediscovered their lost posse Monday night, beat Halifax All-Saints, 72-50, and set up a gorgeous second-round draw tonight in the Canadian junior men's basketball tournament. In the winners' bracket of the double-loss tournament tonight at Central Junior High School, it will be the Chinooks vs. Montreal Orchids in a replay of last year's Canadian final, and the ever-gunning Mt. Royal College Cougars of Calgary against the defence-minded UBC Jayvees.

Chinooks, who showed signs of rattling as they lost the B.C. final in three straight games to the Jayvees, may have got quite a break when they drew the All-Saints in the opening round.

They were put up against a team so weak defensively they got a chance to use every player they possess. Most of them worked and, as coach Ollie Goldsmith put it later, his club finally found out for sure that they still know how to play this game.

Opening night drew about 800 fans, and they got quite a show. Chinooks got 16 points each from Barney Spaven, Ron Bowker and Ken Jackson, got good rebounding from Brian Brumwell in the early going, and generally turned in a promising effort as they began defence of their title.

For All-Saints, it was a different story.

TOO TALKATIVE

The Halifax club stayed close for a while, but bickered and complained at officiating throughout. When it was over they had two technical fouls, two deliberate fouls and one player, Louie Dixon, disqualified.

And the ironic part about it was that until they started moaning they were in the game.

BENCH PLAY

Chinooks had a 40-19 lead at half time, and from there Goldsmith used his bench, never leaving his starting five in the game intact.

From the first-round scores, the draw was made about as perfectly as anyone could ask. No game was decided by less than 10 points.

LOSER OUT

Tonight at 5, it will be Hamilton Quigleys vs. Fredricton Elms, the loser being eliminated. Cougars and Jayvees play at 7:30, and Chinooks and Montreal Orchids at 9.

The game of the night could well be between Jayvees and Cougars. The Calgary club took 82 shots last night in beating Hamilton, and plays a fast-breaking game all the way. Jayvees can score, but they rely on defence. Something has to give.

BIG JOB

For Chinooks, the big job according to advance reports will be in stopping Ray Michon, who is averaging 34 points per game for the Orchids.

Victoria Chinooks—Ron Stubbings 4, Brian McIntyre 2, Rick Hunter 3, Don Thompson 4, Barry Burch 5, Ken Jackson 16, Barry Turner, Barry Spaven 16, Ron Bowler 15, Brian Brumwell 3, Total—72.
Halifax All-Saints—Irving Cohen 20, Fred McKeown, Louie Dixon 1, Don Howard, Dave McNeil, Allen Wray, Peter Morrison 4, Lloyd Ford 2, Jim Lovell 10. Total—50.

Should Have Had Record by Now

Two Missing Goals Haunt Bobby Hull

Bobby Hull set a new National Hockey League record on Sunday night in Chicago when he whipped the puck past Boston-rookie Bernie Parent in the last minute of the second period. It was Hull's 51st scoring shot of the season, but that counts two that didn't count and Hull with 14 games left he appears to be a clinch to get more than 30 goals. And, now, also to set a new record for points in one season.

In addition to his 49th official goal, Hull also drew four assists in Sunday's 7-1 rout of the Bruins.

This boosted Hull's total to 84 points for the 51 games he has played, only 12 fewer than the NHL record of 96 points in one season set by Dickie Moore.

Victory kept the Hawks in a first-place tie with Montreal's azzling Canadiens, who got another big game out of Jean Beliveau as they slapped down the slump-ridden Detroit Red Wings, 5-3.

still needs two more goals to break the record of 50 set by Maurice Richard and later tied by Bernie Geoffrion and Hull.

But for errors by officials, Hull would have had 50 goals in the first 50 games he played this season and a new record in his 51st game.

He lost bona fide goals in New York on Dec. 5 and in Chicago in a game against Montreal Canadiens on Jan. 23. Replays of television tap on each occasion proved beyond doubt that Hull should have been credited with goals.

In the first instance, one of Hull's terrific shots streaked by New York goalkeeper Ed Giacomin and came right back into play. The goal judge didn't see it and there was no red light, and his decision was backed up by referee John Ashley in turning down Chicago protests.

POINT SHOT
In Chicago on Jan. 23, Hull got his stick on a point shot taken by Pat Stapleton but the official scored refused to change his decision that it was Stapleton's goal despite repeated protests from the Hawks and press-box watchers who had seen the deflection.

In this case, too, replay of the television tape showed that Hull should have been credited with the goal.

However, the original rulings had to stand and Hull still has his record to get. Fortunately,

Beliveau, who got his 37th and 37th career goals on Saturday to the Ted Lindsay for third place on the all-time NHL scoring list, set up three Montreal goals to move into fifth place in the individual point race with 57 points.

Defeat all but wrecked first-place hopes for the Wings, who have only won three of their last 16 games. They are eight points behind the co-leaders, have played two more games than Canadiens and now face a seven-game road trip.

In Sunday's other game, Toronto Maple Leafs accepted a 2-2 tie with the Rangers in New York to close in on the third-place Wings. Leafs are only three points in arrears and have three games in hand.

Twenty-two-year-old Nicole Janelle and her Port Alfred rink scored two on the ninth end and stole a point on the 10th to force an extra end.

In the evening, B.C. recovered from a 5-1 deficit after only three ends, going ahead, 8-5.

Bertoia Named Shamrock Coach

Bert Bertoia, who was with Victoria Shamrocks when they spent most of their time in the winners' circle, will coach them this year as they try to get back in.

Bertoia was named Monday to replace Jim McNeill, who was forced through pressure of business to quit the Inter-City Lacrosse League club.

Bertoia came to the Shamrocks in 1965 and scored 43 goals. He sat out the following year but was back in 1963, scoring 33 goals to finish fourth in league points.

Club president Doug Fletcher describes him as a student of the game and "an outstanding choice" to lead the Shamrocks away from the last place they occupied last year.

Shamrocks will be doing a great deal of rebuilding this year, dipping into the ranks of their Junior Shamrock club.

Additional of junior scoring champion Ranjit Dillon and defence-man John Lauvas, plus some players who still have junior eligibility, is expected to help them take a shot at a playoff berth.

Jayvees' Bench Proves Its Value

The thing about UBC Jayvees is that they always come up with the people to get the job done. It was never more evident than in last night's 82-57 victory over Fredricton Elms.

Ken Kern got them started, scoring eight of their first 14 points. With the score 19-16, Kern hurt his ankle.

In came Bob Molinski, the forward who played guard and checked Victoria's Ken Jackson to a standstill in the B.C. final. Now Molinski was back at forward. He scored 18 points, and grabbed 13 rebounds.

Sam Vandermeulen scored 14 points, Joe Kainer and Dave Rice got 11 each, and Kern finished with 10. But mostly, Jayvees simply closed the door on defence.

Elms have some fine basketball players, particularly Gary Crandienne and Dave Nutbrown. But last night they were a tired basketball club, a team that arrived in Victoria only 2½ hours before they had to take the court.

In the other game, Mt. Royal College Cougars of Calgary showed they have height, speed and five good shooters. All together, they have entirely too much for Hamilton Quigleys, even on a night when they are not shooting too well.

Cougars flew past the Quigleys, 81-63, and all five starters hit double figures. But as a team, they did not hit with any consistency despite that impressive final score.

UBC Jayvees—Phil Langley 8, Joe Kainer 11, Reinhold Brummechel 7, Glen Carter 2, Bob Molinski 18, Sam Vandermeulen 14, Ken Rice 11, Dave White 11, Alan Quinn, Total—82.
Fredricton Elms—Bob Brownell 8, R. E. White 12, Dave Nutbrown 12, Macon Ouellet 10, Murray Wall, Gary Crandienne 18, Ken Lockwood 2, Don Andrews 4. Total—57.

Track, Field Reorganized Again

Track and field, a sport that has had its ups and downs in this area, has received a boost with the announcement that the Royal Canadian Legion and the newly-formed Victoria and District Track and Field Association have combined forces.

The Legion has sufficient funds to carry on its Athletic Fitness Program, a concept formerly called the Junior Olympic Training Plan. It is hoped that with the new organization and with co-operation of coaches, youngsters between 12 and 18 will get quick benefit in their pursuit of track and field. First step is a registration meeting set for Wednesday night at Oak Bay High School gym at 7.

The Legion staged a clinic at Royal Roads in January which was conducted by Lionel Pugh, track and field coach at UBC.

More than 40 local coaches and school teachers attended the two-day clinic.

Mine Care Urged

Dumping of fine mine tailings into Buttle Lake would bring no harmful effect if the amount is controlled, a government official said Monday.

Arthur Paget, deputy minister of water resources, told a special legislative committee that Western Mines' daily output of 300 tons of fine tailings would be insignificant. "If it becomes 3,000 or 30,000 tons daily then we would have to take another look," he said.

I. L. Withler, provincial fisheries biologist, said it might be less dangerous to pump them into the lake at a depth below 100 feet than to put them on the land where erosion could carry them onto the surface of the lake.

Howard Palsb, secretary manager of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, told the committee his group would rather see the fine tailings deposited in the lake under government supervision than risk the chance of them being washed from the land into the lake. Charles Campbell, general manager of Western Mines, said the company had found a large place in Buttle Lake near its mine on Myra Creek, where the depth reached 180 feet.

He said the non-toxic fine tailings could be pumped into the lake there for "100 years and still not come within 100 feet of the surface."

Friendly Cove Fire Kills Child

FRIENDLY COVE — A 15-month-old boy was killed in a house fire at Friendly Cove Sunday morning.

He was Wayne Stephen Dick. His 16-year-old sister rescued three other children in the house but was burned back by the flames when going in for the baby.

An inquest has been ordered.

Ahousats Respond to Need

AHOUSAT — Poverty and generosity run through the history of the Ahousats. Suffering caused by fire has recently made a stern call on the generosity of the band.

They responded, giving all the help they could, when fire Feb. 20 wiped out the apartment home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Frank and their seven children, and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Little and their two small children. Hannah Frank, two, died in the fire.

Others also helped the families. The district Indian agent rushed to Ahousat to issue warrants for food, clothing and blankets.

Budget Criticism

Former Chairman Bombards Board

By KLAUS MUENTER
DUNCAN — A motion of censure by the school board against a trustee has been attacked by a former chairman of the Cowichan board.

"No trustee should pass such a motion," said George Bonner, Cobble Hill.

He referred to the Cowichan school board's action in censuring Trustee Dr. Neil Dornling. The Duncan dentist had strongly criticized the board for passing a record $2,660,000 budget.

Dr. Dornling said "my conscience would not allow me to maintain peace any longer."

He complained about "how the whole affair (of the budget) has been conducted."

Mr. Bonner defended Dr. Dornling, and hit the censure motion.

"He is representing a group of people and I think the motion should be withdrawn."

Mr. Bonner also took exception to the way the board treated the City of Duncan request to cut down its budget.

He said "Just to say their request came too late is not good enough."

"I am sure the minister of education has the power to allow the budget to be submitted a bit later and I think the board still has time to make certain changes to the budget.

"If it is not possible according to the regulation then it should be made possible because it is the public's money and that should not be kicked around," F. Rea.

DUNCAN — City officials have been criticized for their lack of interest in the weekend Teen Association conference.

"It's a shame local civic government officials could not attend one of the functions," said Teen Town adult adviser Jim Quail.

"If you think I'm taking a swipe at Duncan city council, you're right!"

NO ONE YET
"We have yet to have a representative from the city to one of our functions."

"When you have a group of youngsters running a club you would think they (city council) would be the first to set a good example."

Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan said 85 delegates from all parts of Vancouver Island and local Teen Towners at the banquet Saturday night: "The council has been sitting by waiting to see what would come of the great effort being put forth by the local teenagers."

"They have proven themselves and certainly deserve a break."

Safer Road Ahead

Road work on the highway at Cowichan Bay will provide a wider travel space and a retaining wall, to stop spring mud slides descending on the road. A highways crew of a dozen men have been working on the project with loader and trucks, pilerdriver and post-hole digger. A 400-foot retaining wall of heavy timber will be built. (H. F. Rea).

Council Stays Away

DUNCAN — City officials have been criticized for their lack of interest in the weekend Teen Association conference.

"It's a shame local civic government officials could not attend one of the functions," said Teen Town adult adviser Jim Quail.

"If you think I'm taking a swipe at Duncan city council, you're right!"

Alberni's Smog Control

'Motion Not Coming Back'

The special cabinet committee studying the air pollution problem will probably hold a series of public hearings leading long after the current legislative session ends.

Trade and Commerce Minister Lofmark, a member of the three-man committee, made the prediction Monday during an interview outside the House. He said the government did not intend to re-introduce a pollution control measure in the House because the issue had been turned into a political football by the opposition.

One of his colleagues has arranged for hearings to be held in the near future for a citizens' committee and a labor union group from Port Alberni, he said.

Mr. Lofmark said he made it clear during a weekend meeting in Port Alberni that the government's pollution control bill would not be coming before the House again.

Municipal governments already have the power to clamp down on bills which are polluting the air, he said.

TECHNICAL ADVICE
But civic officials of the Alberni need technical advice before deciding how far they can go without jeopardizing future expansion of the pulp mill.

Mr. Lofmark said his committee would send "independent, competent people" to Port Alberni to assess what the company has already done, what it intends to do and what it can do about air pollution.

REGIONAL CONTROL
Their findings, he said, should help the local officials decide how far they can go without bringing in measures which are so restrictive as to threaten their own economy.

Pollution control will probably have to be established on a regional rather than province-wide basis, because the Alberni might need more stringent regulations than Powell River, Mr. Lofmark said.

House Gets Measure On Pollution Control

A bill which would give the provincial pollution control board the power to control air and soil pollution was introduced in the legislature Monday by Tony Gargrave (NDP, Mackenzie).

The House gave first reading to the bill, an amendment to the Pollution-Control Act, which would also enable the board to conduct research, hold conferences and public hearings and establish pollution controls.

PORT ALBERNI — A double funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 10 a.m. in Holy Family Church for Lionel and Eva Landry.

Mr. and Mrs. Landry were the victims of a double murder and suicide that included the death of Milan Pavelic, also of Port Alberni, who police said shot the two before turning the 30-30 rifle on himself.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Landry were originally from Saskatchewan. Mr. Landry was born in Blaine Lake, Sask., and came to the Alberni Valley 24 years ago.

The 42-year-old millwright leaves his mother, Mrs. Jeanette Landry of Port Alberni; two sisters at home, Theresa and Eveline, and two brothers, Maurice and George, both of the Alberni Valley.

Mrs. Landry was born Eva Effie Dykun, in Arran, Sask. Three brothers and four sisters survive. They are Matthew and William Dykun, both in Ontario; Nicholas in Arran; Mrs. Pat Grath, Terrace; Mrs. Helen Crene, Toronto; Mrs. Frances Ault, Alberni, and Mrs. Maria Urvydy of Arran.

Prayers will be said at Stevens Funeral Chapel at 7:30 p.m. tonight. Requiem Mass will be at Holy Family Church Wednesday at 10 a.m. with Father Daniel Johnston officiating.

Totems Set As Markers

NANAIMO — The Haida route is going to be marked out with totem poles by the Indian Advisory Committee.

In a letter to city council, R. J. McInnes, director for the Indian Advisory Act in Victoria, said poles will be erected at all B.C. Terminals, as well as along the route from Victoria to Port Hardy and on to Prince Rupert.

Jimmy John of Cedar and James Sewid of Albert Bay will be the carvers for the Nanaimo poles.

COURTENAY — A new group has been formed in this city to deal with keeping business downtown and acquiring more parking space.

The first meeting of the Courtenay Business Development Committee was held with R. N. Carey in the chair.

The group at present is not affiliated in any way with the Chamber of Commerce, although many of its members belong to the Chamber.

Some property has already been acquired in a lane one-half block off Fifth Street in the main downtown section. It is expected it will be cleared and developed as additional parking space.

Industry Expansion Brings IWA Demands

PORT ALBERNI — If the forest industry is going to expand, part of the cost of expansion should go to woodworkers, says the president of Alberni local, International Woodworkers of America.

Walter Allen was explaining the 1966 IWA contract demands calling for a 50-cent hourly wage increase in a one-year contract.

Mr. Allen pointed to major expansion programs underway in the forest industry.

"The building of plants comes out of the coffers of the forest industry," he said.

"If the industry can pay $3.50 an hour for carpenters to build these plants, and $3.75 to construction millwrights to install machinery, then the industry should be able to pay comparable rates to the men who keep the machines going."

27,000 Coast Members

The IWA has 27,000 members on the coast, including 1,000 in Courtenay local, 4,500 in Duncan, 2,000 in the Alberni, 1,700 in Victoria.

The union is also asking for:

- Job protection
- Longer vacations
- Double time for overtime
- A contract provision that IWA members would not have to handle products from struck firms.

Mr. Allen said "in proposing these changes in contract, we have taken into consideration the requirements of our people and the assessment of industry."

In calling for a 50-cent increase on the present basic wage of $2.36 an hour, the union noted that productivity and profits had risen in the industry and that the cost-of-living index had climbed 6.8 points since the present agreement was signed.

IWA demands were termed "exorbitant" by Forest Industrial Relations head John Billings. He said the pay raise alone comes to more than $25,000,000.

The union demands were formulated at a series of weekend meetings in Vancouver and followed by about a month of statements by major forest companies that large wage increases would not be justified this year.

Talks March 16

The current contract on the coast expires June 14. Negotiations begin March 16 with Forest Industrial Relations, representing the companies.

The union is seeking three weeks vacation after one year, four weeks after five years and five weeks after 10 years. Current contract calls for two weeks after one year, three weeks after five years and four weeks after 10 years.

It also wants larger shift-pay differentials and double time for overtime instead of the present time-and-a-half.

The IWA did not spell out precisely what it wanted in the field of job protection but asked for an agreement "on adequate provisions for manpower adjustment to technological change and . . . a wide range of provisions to protect the employees' job security . . ."

The union also wants principles of competency deleted from current contract provisions concerning hiring and promotions and substituted with strict seniority provisions.

Dump Fight Gathers Momentum

NANAIMO — Opposition to a proposed new city garbage dump site south of Chase River is gathering momentum.

At the last council meeting Chase River ratepayers protested the proposal, Monday night two more letters decried the site.

A. M. Renton of Gomerich Road said "It has been suggested the new site is rather more remote from Chase River, when it is only a scant 100 yards further away."

He maintained the 50 homes in the South Wellington valley are in a cul-de-sac situation with the new dump site at the entrance.

Pollution of the fresh water stream in the area was another complaint put forward by Mr. Renton.

Backing up Mr. Renton was the South Wellington PTA. Writing on their behalf was Mrs. O. G. Stewart.

She maintained property values would drop, and she promised council a fight to the finish.

"Do you want to take their (the local children's) fishing poles away and put pellet guns in their hands to shoot the rats?" she asked.

Twin City Bus Service

Bid for Hydro?

PORT ALBERNI — The Twin Cities will study a suggestion that B.C. Hydro be asked to take over the struggling Tyee Bus System here.

"This is obviously an idea," said Ald. Ron Lyon.

A letter from George McKnight to the city said B.C. Hydro recently purchased property in Port Alberni for expansion of shops and facilities.

He said "B.C. Hydro makes a profit out of the power outlets here, and subsidy to finance transportation should come from this profit."

But Ald. Lyon pointed out "there has been considerable opinion that B.C. Hydro would like to get rid of its transportation service."

The matter was turned over to the intermunicipal committee, for study along with a proposed traffic and transport survey.

White Spring

Heavy snow fell overnight over much of the Island, including the Cowichan Valley.

Ladysmith Water Below Par

LADYSMITH — Water here is not up to standard, and council plans to correct the problem.

"The water is of good quality but not up to standard," that was the opinion of Nanaimo health officials quoted to council Monday by Ald. Jack Ken.

Council will chlorinate the water, fence the water supply, and clean the reservoir.

Council will not introduce its proposed leash-law for dogs until an agreement can be made with the Good Shepherd Shelter at Mill Bay.

Ald. Ken said the only help SPCA at Nanaimo could give would be training a dog warden.

The present dog catcher has been bitten by a dog, and is recovering.

New Offer Less Expensive

NANAIMO — A second offer to make a study of the works department was made to city council Monday.

John Oliver and Associates of Vancouver submitted a proposal costing $2,800.

In January Stevenson and Kellogg Ltd. of Vancouver also made an offer, and their cost was $4,500.

Ald. Ken said the survey was a start on the survey as soon as possible.

Former Mayor Suffers Attack

PORT ALBERNI — Former Mayor Loran Jordan is in hospital here recovering after a heart attack.

He was lifting a motorcycle when stricken. He will be recovering for about two months.

Forests Menaced

By H. F. REA

DUNCAN — The woolly aphid will eventually infest all B.C.'s balsam stands, according to a group of experts meeting here. A panel discussion on control of the woolly aphid that threatens forests of B.C., was held by the Vancouver Island section of the Canadian Institute of Forestry Saturday.

Victoria and Duncan areas are heavily infested with the destructive insect.

FORESTERS' DEBATE
About 50 foresters of southern Vancouver Island met, at the Tumbalem Hotel, with W. C. Phillips as moderator and panel members Mike Zachary, B.C. Forest Service; Harvey Richmond, consultant; and Les Mac-

Mullen, Canadian Department of Forestry.

They discussed identification and means of controlling the insect, which, it is estimated, could destroy 12 per cent of the wood supply.

The woolly aphid, usually hits balsam trees, but will attack all firs.

Between 1954 and 1960 it destroyed more than 2,000,000,000 board feet of timber in the stands of one company in Washington and Oregon.

An infestation in Newfoundland has been termed a problem of national concern, and New Brunswick has experienced a serious outbreak.

When a stand is infested it must be logged within a year or the wood is useless.

There is no known method of control. Because of its minute size and distribution over the whole tree, in bark crevices and under bud scales, it is impossible to reach all insects with chemicals.

The eventual infestation throughout the balsam stands of B.C. is thought to be inevitable, unless a solution is soon found.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Landry were originally from Saskatchewan. Mr. Landry was born in Blaine Lake, Sask., and came to the Alberni Valley 24 years ago.

The 42-year-old millwright leaves his mother, Mrs. Jeanette Landry of Port Alberni; two sisters at home, Theresa and Eveline, and two brothers, Maurice and George, both of the Alberni Valley.

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Cardin disclosed Monday in the Commons the alleged espionage offences by George Victor Spencer of Vancouver began "well before 1960."

Money Crisis Brews

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The government, technically, is broke today.

When the clock on the Peace Tower struck midnight last night, the last day of February, the government was left without any spending authority from Parliament.

It has no authority for spending in March, for paying civil servants, the armed forces and other expenses of government.

A government in such a fix clearly faces a crisis, which it can solve by:

- Diverting carryover money from previous authority.

Ghana Near Famine

From Reuters-AP

ACCRA (CP) — Lt. Gen. Joseph Ankrah, Ghana's new military ruler, said Monday night his country is close to famine and starvation and he appealed to friendly countries to help restore its economy.

In his first nationwide address since seizing power in a coup four days ago, Ankrah branded deposed President Kwame Nkrumah as Africa's No. 1 tyrant and dictator and charged him with bringing Ghana to the brink of economic ruin.

Nkrumah arrived Monday in Moscow and conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. There was no indication how long he would stay there.

"KEEP OUT"

Ankrah also warned "all nations to keep out of our problems and leave us alone to do our best to solve them."

Earlier at a press conference he said if Nkrumah returns to Ghana he will face trial.

Ankrah made these other points:

- Ghana will cease to interfere in the internal affairs of other states and no longer will harbor and train political refugees for subverting other African countries.

- Ghana will retain membership in the Commonwealth. She will not break relations with Russia and China.

- Ghana is willing to re-establish diplomatic relations with Britain, broken off by Nkrumah.

RENTAL-PURCHASE GRANT UNDER PROVINCIAL STUDY

'Tit For Tat'

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Premier Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa said Monday night if Britain, a great friend of the United States, can continue to trade with Cuba and North Viet Nam, it is much more natural for South Africa to maintain normal relations with its immediate neighbor, Rhodesia.

Verwoerd, opening the campaign of the ruling Nationalist party for the March 30 general election, said he wishes to make it clear Britain has made no threats to South Africa despite its attitude towards Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

Diplomatic exchanges between the two countries have led to wrong deductions by others, he said. They had taken place in a decent manner, which could be expected from civilized nations that wanted to retain the friendship of others.

CONCERN EXPRESSED
Britain has expressed concern about certain developments and South Africa has expressed concern to Britain about certain events on its own soil, Verwoerd said.

He was apparently referring to British objections to oil supplies being sent to Rhodesia from private individuals and organizations in South Africa. South Africa is believed to have in turn complained about British agents going to the border post of Beit Bridge to check on oil supplies being sent to Rhodesia.

IGNORES BOYCOTT
Verwoerd said South Africa has expressed its determination to adhere to its policy of non-interference and to refuse to take part in any boycott against Rhodesia, whose white-minority government broke away from Britain Nov. 11.

He said it is true Rhodesia is benefiting from South Africa's refusal to participate in any boycotts, but nobody and no nation that is reasonable could expect anything else from a good neighbor not concerned in the particular conflict.

Israeli, Old Plane, Won't See Nasser

F-5 Tested Over North

SAIGON (LAT)—Northrop's F-5 Freedom Fighter jets—the U.S. "discards" purchased for Canadian use—had their big chance to prove themselves Monday in strike missions over North Viet Nam.

The small, inexpensive fighter planes had been sent to Viet Nam for testing under combat conditions, compared with the bigger, more sophisticated Thunderchiefs and Phantoms.

Results of Monday's sorties will provide Canada with some of the answers she is looking for in connection with this proposed addition to her fighting forces.

Peace Flight Misses

PORT SAID (AP) — An Israeli former fighter pilot flew to the United Arab Republic Monday on a one-man peace mission but failed in an attempt to see President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He will be given fuel to fly home today.

Abraham Nathan, 38, made a forced landing at Gamal Airport in Port Said when his tiny, 40-year-old monoplane ran out of fuel. He had radioed ahead that he was on a peace mission and requested permission to land. He said he wanted to see Nasser.

ENOUGH FUEL

Hasan Roshdy, security chief in Port Said, said Nathan would be allowed to spend the night in Port Said and be given enough fuel to fly out this morning.

There were reports that Nathan told Port Said authorities he brought with him petitions bearing thousands of Israeli signatures calling for peace between the United Arab Republic and Israel. The U.A.R. considers itself still at war with Israel.

Cancer Patient Finds 'Twin' Tumor Transplant All Set

BUFFALO (AP) — Doctors at Roswell Park memorial institute said Monday they have located a cancer victim who has agreed to participate in a rare cancer transplant with a Tucson, Ariz., businessman.

The unidentified 65-year-old man from Philadelphia, and Robert F. Allen, 28, of Tucson, will come to Buffalo for the operation, perhaps this week, a spokesman said.

Allen, father of three, has osteogenic sarcoma, a rare type of bone cancer, and has been given two to six months to live by his doctors.

His life could be saved, the doctors said, if a person could be found with the same type of cancer and the matching blood-type, O-positive.

The treatment, which involves transplanting a portion of the tumor from each into the thigh of the other, also could save the life of the other man, doctors said.

Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler, associate chief cancer research surgeon at Roswell Park, New York state's cancer research and treatment centre, said he decided on the Philadelphia man Monday afternoon.

LBJ Discreetly Cheers for Wilson

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill, sometimes described as a 19th-century Tory, urged Britain never to turn its back on the alliance with the United States.

His most ardent disciple today in that view is Harold Wilson, Socialist prime minister.

*****

If that seems paradoxical, so does the general assumption here President Johnson's heart rides firmly—if discreetly—with

Wilson in the March 31 election called Monday in a bid to strengthen the delicate Labor majority. (See Page 20)

Another general assumption is campaign issues are likely to deal more than usual with American policy in Viet Nam and elsewhere and British adherence to it.

The British election seems certain to be followed accordingly with much more interest than is usual and the result viewed—rightly or wrongly

—as a comment on Labor support for the American role in Viet Nam.

Wilson's success to date in muzzling his usually voluble left wing has been noted carefully.

There are other matters, such as Britain's decision, much welcomed here, to stick militarily east of Suez although Conservative spokesmen such as Enoch Powell have advocated pulling out.

There is the decision to let the Royal Navy wither and to buy expensive American fighter-bombers instead.

Britain's role, therefore, is held to be silly No. 1 at a time when the U.S., hard-pressed to rally acceptance of its policy in Viet Nam let alone much material support, feels itself extended globally in its defence commitments.

Prime Minister Wilson also has come across to Americans as a hard-nosed, adroit politician.

President Johnson, speaking to reporters Saturday, praised Wilson's cables on his Moscow visit as pitifully political reporting. Johnson coupled that with a bouquet to Prime Minister Pearson, incidentally for succinctness and brevity.

In short, Wilson has scored in the White House and outside as a strong pragmatist, facing the hard facts of Britain's new middle-power role and unfettered by much ideological commitment.

NASA Says:

Russians To Land On Moon

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—James Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, said Monday the Soviet Union may attempt to land men on the moon this year.

He told the Senate's aeronautical and space committee: "All signs indicate we will see more and larger Soviet operations in space this year."

Webb also said budget cuts have destroyed his agency's hopes of sending an American to the moon in 1967 or 1968.

But, barring some major setbacks, it was reasonable to expect a U.S. lunar landing by late 1969.

Protester Finds Jail She Likes

OLYMPIA (AP) — Comedian Dick Gregory's wife Monday ended a two-week stay in Thurston County's jail which she called "the nicest one I've been in."

She and her husband were jailed Feb. 15 for illegal use of sets for fishing during a protest fish-in by Indians on the Nisqually River east of Olympia.

Gregory was scheduled to arrive at the Seattle-Tacoma airport Monday to continue support of Indians in their fishing rights squabble with the state.

The nightclub comic was bailed out of jail here Feb. 17, but his wife stayed, Monday she said, "I've stayed in jail long enough to protest."
